A HEALTHIER AND HAPPIER LIFE is offered by the Kendrew Directed Closer Settlement, located in the famous Graaff-Reinet District, where the soil is of extraordinary fertility and irrigation farming has long proved highly profitable. This new departure in directed closer settlement offers an ideal career to those who prefer an open-air life in the glorious and health-giving climate of the Cape Colony to the strain of modern commercial life. At the Kendrew Training Farm a year's free practical training UNDER EXPERTS fits the newcomer, commanding not less than £1,500, to share in the prosperity assured by the expenditure on irrigation of £435,000 voted by the Union House of Assembly on the unanimous recommendation of a Select Committee. Provision of a kind, and to an extent unknown before in connection with land settlement projects has been made for the social life and recreation of the settlers. Whilst in residence at the Family Hostel or Training Farm, settlers may have their farms fenced, placed under crops and trees, and dwellinghouse erected by the Contract Department created for that purpose, thus obviating the loss of a valuable year. With living expenses of only £200 p.a. for an average family, negligible taxation, plentiful and inexpensive native labour, the provisions made are such as to ensure that settlers will stay and prosper on the land they acquire, whilst the elimination of pioneering and isolation will ensure the contentment of their womenfolk. Write for illustrated brochure to African Irrigated Land Co., Ltd., 36 New Broad street, London, E.C. 2, or African Life Buildings, Cape Town. T

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

CRADLE SONGS.

(BY MAY SLADE.)

THE Cradle songs and lullabies, the rocking and the "hushing" songs of a nation, show plainly its poetry and its temperament, even more than do its folklore and love-songs.

These lullabies, sung by mothers to their babies, are often as ancient as the history of the country. In them we find passionate maternal love, expressed in words influenced by the character of the country and its people. Russian cradle songs, for example, are poignantly sad: the melancholy of the down-trodden peasant is shown in them. Irish lullabies, too, have a certain pathos: they are full of beautiful and poetical thoughts and expressions.

All the liveliest cradle songs, indeed, appear to be sad, or to have sadness behind the joy and the pride. Perhaps, this is not strange; for a mother, whilst hushing her baby to sleep, has time to think of its future, to tremble with fear and apprehension of what that future may hold for it, and to wonder in what strange places those little feet may tread, when she is no longer near to guide them.

Many English and Scotch poets have written cradle songs and "rocking hymns"; Tennyson's "Sweet and Low" is one of the most popular. Sir Walter Scott's "Oh, hush thee, my baby, thy sire was a knight," is characteristic of the time and the people for which it was written. Sara Coleridge's "O sleep, my babe," is one of the most perfect of lullabies; its lines and thoughts are exquisite poetry.

Scotch cradle songs are often very quaint, with curious touches of laughter and tears in them. Anderson's "Cuddle Doon" is one of these. But no lullabies are more beautiful as poetry nor more tender in thought than the Irish. The hushing, "crooning" songs in all parts of Ireland are characteristic of a people in which family lore is strong.

Fiona Macleod (William Sharpe) has written some exquisite verses, breathing the poetry and the pain, the joy and the tears, that are usually found in Irish music and in Irish love songs, and a lullaby is surely a "love" song.

The last verse of one of these cradle songs of Fiona Maclead is an example:

"Eilidh, Eilidh, Eilidh, put off your wee hands from the heart o' me,
'Tis pain they are making there, where no more pain should be:
For the little running feet an' wee white hands, an' croodlin' as of the sea,
Bring tears to my eyes, Eilidh, tears, fears
　　out of the heart o' me—
Mo-lennav-a-chree,
Mo-lennav-a-chree!"

Francis Fahy's Irish lullaby is more joyful than sad. In it the mother calls her baby "My share of the world," an expressive and beautiful idea.

Moira O'Neill has written several cradle-songs of Antrim, "The Little Son" and "Johneen" being the best known.

Some of Swinburne's loveliest lines were cradle songs; and Robert Herrick wrote exquisite epitaphs upon little children. One is this:

"Here a pretty baby lies,
Sung asleep with lullabies;
Pray be silent and not stir
Th' easy earth that covers her."

ARTISTIC AND SERVICEABLE.

The girl's frock is of tussore in anemone-pink, with bands of a soft blue. The boy's tunic-suit is expressed in brown silk shirting, with appliques of honey-coloured silk embroidered in brown.

THE SWEEP.

THE comfort of the house depends very largely upon the dexterity of the "dark gentleman" who visits us periodically, as all chimney doctors are not equally deft with regard to their calling, it is very necessary to prepare carefully for the exigencies of the visit.

The smaller pictures should be taken down and the large ones veiled. All furniture must be carefully covered with dust sheets and newspapers over them, as it is impossible, no matter how tidy your special cleaner may be, to avoid a thin almost invisible film of soot. It has a way of sticking to everything that no other sort of dust ever achieves.

There is no need to mention that carpets and rugs should have been removed ere this and sent to the cleaners, or the vacuum could have done its duty.

The chimney-cleaning fraternity of Dublin are, on the whole, very civil and efficient men, and some of them have worked for the same round of clients year after year.

They are gossipy, entertaining gentry, too, and take a fatherly interest in every family with whom they have to do. Like all Irishmen they are rich in quaint anecdotes and jokes, and not in the least like the immortal Grimes of Kingsley. One good thing modern civilisation has done for us—chimney-lads like poor Tom are consigned to the limbo of past abominations.

The cruelty of sending children up the flues is beyond thought. Forced up by Grimes's of a brutal character, they have been known to get wedged, and sometimes have even died in the dark and suffocating gulf.

In a big country house the sweep's day is one to be remembered. As it is almost impossible in some places to get a professional, the handyman of the establishment is called in, and—the mess is appalling. The kitchen is reduced to chaos, and every available man and maid stands round with covered head as if assisting at some mysterious rite, and advice is offered by all and sundry.

The amateur sweep at length getting irritated remarks: "Can't ye stop talkin' till I hear if the soot is comin' down?"

By the time he is finished everyone is more or less sooty, but there is an element of good humour; it has broken the monotony, and after all you don't clean chimneys every day.

In the farmhouses and cottages the brush is unknown, a stout furse-bush doing duty for it. It takes two people to work this primitive, though effective apparatus. Another method still more primitive, but highly dangerous, is a bundle of straw soaked with petroleum and pushed up the chimney. The soot is thus burned away. The remarkable fact is, that very rarely indeed have houses taken fire when treated thus. When one hears of many places being burnt through over-heated flues, one is scarcely able to understand.

COOKING UTENSILS.

WITHOUT doubt the pleasures of the table are enhanced by good cooking. We all know the adage of God sending meat, and the devil sending cooks. It is essential that the latter, in order to ensure success, should pay attention in the first instance to the utensils in use and the condition of them.

It is false economy to use anything but the best. Dishes and pans where the enamel cracks easily, retain the flavour of the different things cooked in them, and have the unfortunate way of passing on the foreign flavour to another dish.

Oriental pottery is the best; because of its perfect glazing, nothing dissolves it, no liquor can penetrate it. Some of our own wares are glazed with the help of lead, therefore, it is dangerous to let vinegar or other acids lie in them. Glass ware, which is now so largely used for cooking is the best for these, and should be used whenever possible.

Silver vessels and those lined with it, are preferable to all others, because nothing we use as food can dissolve it. Articles containing sulphur, such as eggs, appear to tarnish it; however, this is only a thin crust formed by the union of the brimstone and silver. Copper and brass vessels are good, but unless kept scrupulously clean are apt to form what is kniwn as verdigris, which is highly poisonous.

Block tin is safer to use than tinned copper, as being plated on to iron, the latter metal is not harmful. Strange to say, corned beef boiled in an untinned iron pot, often turns almost black on the outside of the lean, probably some acid in the meat being acted upon by the iron.

Fruits also blacken if cooked in iron vessels. Good enameled iron ware is useful for milk or sauces of any kind, but the inferior sorts crack and chip. It is stated that such ware is answerable for many diseases, including appendicitis.

Aluminium has come largely into use of late, and very satisfactory it is, quite equal to silver in appearance if properly kept. It is beautifully light, and is not disposed to burn. Soda or cleaning powders containing it should never be used with it. Ordinary soap, or a little Vim sprinkled on a damp cloth, rubbed on till all the dirt disappears, then rinsed in clear hot water, dried and polished with powdered brick or whiting.

Having satisfied ourselves that all our utensils are the right sort, the next essential is that everything in connection with the preparation of food should be absolutely clean, so much depends upon it, even perhaps our very life itself.

No matter how good our materials may be, the results are often disastrous for lack of a little care. The finest tea on the market, served in priceless china, is a dead failure if the cups have been wiped with a dirty cloth. Bright silver, clear glass, pure table linen, scoured saucepans, are sign posts on the road to success in cooking.

Automatic Cattle Catching & Releasing Machine

WITH PHYSICING ATTACHMENT. Patent Pending No. 16997/1923

By its aid in de-horning cattle one man and a small boy can do five men's work five times quicker with safety to both men and animal.

It saves time and trouble in branding them either on horn or hoof.

When it is used with additional attachment, a boy can physic the wildest animal with ease, and without endangering its life by suffocation, as he can instantly release its head from the elevation he requires it in, and just as quickly raise it again.

Cattle owners, don't miss the opportunity offered at the R.D.S. Show. Place your orders for one of those up-to-date and efficient machines with the inventor,

P. J. ABRAHAM.
When, for any reason, cattle require to be held in one position, the use of a cage such as that exhibited by Mr. J. Abraham, Ivy House, Ballygowan, Ardee, is very effective. It is specially useful in the administration of physic and as an aid in the branding of cattle.

WEXFORD ENGINEERING CO., LTD.

At this stand also an exposition of the Oliver typewriter is given.

HENRY FORD AND SON, LTD.
The Ford car and the Fordson tractor have made the lot of the average farmer more bearable. Both machines are moderate in price and can be obtained from Ford authorised dealers everywhere.

FLETCHER AND PHILLIPSON.

MARSHALL, SONS AND CO., LTD.
Messrs. Marshall, Sons, and Co., Ltd., Gainsborough, England, have on view a steam roller of the latest type, an oil engine suitable for creameries and factories, and a steel threshing machine suitable for working with field tractors, but having, it is claimed, a much greater threshing capacity than any of the "tractor-threshers."

PAUL AND VINCENT, LTD.
Messrs. Paul and Vincent, Ltd., of Blackhall place, Dublin, occupy a space in the Central Hall with samples of basic slag of the highest grades, 80 per cent. solubility and 80 per cent. fineness. In addition to other feeding stuffs they exhibit samples of palm-kernel cake which has proved of such value for stock-feeding.

THOMAS THOMPSON AND SONS, LTD.
From their extensive premises at 19-22 Lower Abbey street, Dublin, Messrs. Thomas Thompson and Sons, Ltd., have sent a well-constructed hay bogie, a straw elevator, a county council four-bunk sleeping van, a six-ton Thornycroft lorry, a four-ton 50 h.p. commercial lorry and a 20-seater single-deck Thornycroft 'bus. The poultry houses on show can be packed up into small compass, and, therefore, ensure easy transit.

AL[illegible]URY BROTHERS.
This well-known firm has, as usual, a prominent place in the Show ground, and is showing a number of vehicles of the various type for which this firm has an extended reputation. On this occasion there is a novelty on display in the shape of a convertible vehicle, which may be a van by day and a touring car in the afternoon. A char-a-banc body is also a feature of this firm's exhibit.

THOMAS McKENZIE AND SONS, LTD.
Messrs. Thomas McKenzie and Sons have two stands at the Show, and in that in the Main Hall they exhibit all kinds of things from a garden tent to a parish cooker, while in the paddock stand they give demonstrations of hay-making machinery, manure distributors, thistle cutters, root cutters, chaff cutters, and a number of other labour-saving appliances of interest to agriculturists.

LINCOLN AND NOLAN, LTD.
Messrs. Lincoln and Nolan, Ltd., have established themselves at 57 and 58 Lower Baggot street, and without fear of contradiction assert that this is the place "where service and value meet." They have at their headquarters and at the Show a variety of cars which suit the wishes of most and meet the pocket resources of all. This firm has a scheme in hands of which all who visit the Show should get the details.

W. B. CRAWFORD, LTD.
As representatives of the Overland commercial vehicles, Messrs. W. B. Crawford, Ltd., make a very fine display. This includes a one-ton Overland chassis, priced at £198; a well-finished brougham, and a 10-cwt. delivery van, fully equipped. These vehicles are characteristic specimens of the Overland type, and should be inspected by all who wish to become acquainted with reliable means of transport.

ALEXANDER DICKSON AND SONS.
Messrs. Alexander Dickson and Sons (Dublin), Ltd., occupy their usual position in the Central Hall. Their display will comprise samples of turnip and mangel seeds, showing the method of packing for country agents. The sealing and branding of each packet guarantees the genuineness of the seed. There are also shown samples of many varieties of seeds, all most attractively arranged.

JOHNSTON, MOONEY AND O'BRIEN, LTD.
At Stand No. 37 Messrs. Johnston, Mooney and O'Brien, Ltd., have an elaborate display of products of the Clonliffe Flour Mills which they control at Jones's road, Dublin. "Bakers'" household flour is shown, as is also wheatenmeal and self-raising flour. There is also a large display of bread and a collection of confectionery. The stand is well designed and reflects the enthusiasm of this enterprising firm.

BROWNE AND NOLAN, LTD.
Messrs. Browne and Nolan, Ltd., Nassau street, Dublin, display a fine selection of milk record books and account books for all purposes. Special interest should be aroused by their office file cabinets and Agrippa loose-leaf ledgers. Travelling requisites, samples of commercial printing and stationery, and all classes of books dealing with agriculture are also shown. A prominent exhibit is the firm's Gaelic map of Ireland.

ASHENHURST, WILLIAMS AND CO.
All interested in improved methods of road transport will find much useful material at the stand of Messrs. Ashenhurst, Williams and Co., Ltd. Their exhibits include a 30-seater omnibus, remarkable for the excellence of its workmanship and running qualities; a three-way tipping lorry, a motor-driven horse box, a flat platform lorry, and a 5 cwt. to 7 cwt. van. This machine is remarkable for its low running costs, and, like all the other exhibits on this stand, is exceedingly well turned out.

LEVER BROS., LTD.
Four reliable stock foods are shown by Messrs. Lever Bros., Ltd., Cunard Building, Liverpool. These comprise Lever's special dairy nuts, nuttlets and meal; pedigree fattening nuts, nuttlets and meal; Bromboro' Magic feeding nuts, nuttlets and meal, and also their creamy calf meal. In these foods there is a guaranteed percentage of oil and albuminoids, and their practical value is shown by the results which have been obtained.

GIBSOL, LTD.
The stand of Gibsol, Ltd., will make an appeal to cattle owners at the Show because of the fact that the unguent which is displayed by this firm has a reputation of almost a quarter of a century. It was discovered by Mr. Robert Gibson, a Limerick man, who used the ointment with marked success in dealing with ring-worm in stock. It has now been perfected, and it is claimed that it will cure the men who have become infected while tending animals suffering from the most virulent form of ring-worm.

WHITE, TOMKINS AND COURAGE.
One of the most remarkable trade exhibits is that of Messrs. White, Tomkins and Courage, 3a Burgh quay, Dublin, in which the place of honour is given to samples of Clarendo, a preparation which has been used with marked success for many years in the feeding of horses, cattle, sheep, and pigs. White's popular Wafer Oatmeal is also prominent on this stand, other lines shown being White's delicious Jelly Crystals in various flavours, White's Reigate Jams, and White's Pickwick and Clipper Peas.

IRISH B.P. CO., LTD.
The Irish B. P. Co., Ltd., have a stall at which are displayed the well-known "B.P." spirit, vaporising "T.V.O." oil for motor tractors, "P.V.O." vaporising oil for engines, lamp and heating oils, petrol pumps and fittings, the well-known Bowser pump—kerb-side and indoor varieties—for the storage of petrol in bulk; cabinets, tanks and drums for storing oil; B.P. lamps and stoves, B.P. patent paraffin vapour lamps, B.P. radiators, B.P. ovens, as well as candles and lamps.

SULPHATE OF AMMONIA FEDERATION.
The increased crop yields which follow from the use of sulphate of ammonia are strikingly illustrated at the stand of the Sulphate of Ammonia Federation, Ltd. Here are shown samples of grain, root, and potato crops grown with the aid of sulphate of ammonia. Experiments in Co. Donegal last season showed that each cwt. of sulphate of ammonia resulted in an increase in crop of from 1 to 2½ tons per statute acre. Full particulars regarding these and other experiments are given in leaflets obtainable at the stand.

SHELL-MEX (DUBLIN), LTD.
Amongst the motor oils exhibited by Shell-Mex (Dublin), Ltd., are the newly discovered Super Shell oils, which have been identified with many recent successes in the air and on the track. Fuel oils are represented by samples of Mex Diesel, fuel and gas oils. Visitors interested in road construction should investigate the merits of Mexphalte, Spramex and Bitumen, which are used in this connection. Other exhibits here include marine and industrial lubricating oils, a kerb-side pumping plant, and various types of motor oil bulk storage equipment.

HANDLEY AND ROBINSON, LTD.
The stall of Messrs. Handley and Robinson, Ltd., 31b Dawson street, Dublin, electrical engineers, is well worth visiting. The firm's "Delco" lighting sets are exceedingly economical and useful, particularly for country residences. The engine can be run on petrol or paraffin, is air-cooled, and dispenses with clumsy water tanks and pipes. This apparatus not only lights the house, but can be used for general power supply purposes. It is inexpensive, and costs but a trifle to run. The firm has also on view an extensive range of wireless instruments and fittings.

KENNAN AND SONS, LTD.
The old-established engineering firm of Messrs. Kennan and Sons, Ltd., Fishamble street, Dublin, display specimens of their famous field gates and fencing and one of their steel-roofed hay barns. A great deal of interest will be aroused by the very compact motor thresher, which occupies a conspicuous position. A Fairbanks oil engine is shown operating food-preparing machinery of the most modern description. Other exhibits include the "Marvel" dry feeder for pigs, an invention that automatically controls the quantity of each feed; the "Buckeye" incubator, in which the regulation of temperature is purely automatic; and the C. and H. butter-making machine.

DAIRY ENGINEERING COMPANY OF IRELAND.
Many interests are catered for by the Dairy Engineering Company of Ireland, Ltd., Bachelor's Walk, Dublin. Those who are interested in dairying will find on this stand a useful range of separators, churns, etc.; while farm machinery is represented by land rollers and harrows, mowing machines, horse rakes, and swath turners.

In addition to these exhibits, the Dairy Engineering Company of Ireland are running the working dairy for the Royal Dublin Society. They are also supplying samples of goods for the Department's display in the Annexe.

LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.—WHEAT—Disappointing American and Argentine cables caused forward deliveries of wheat here to start at a moderate decline, but prices afterwards fluctuated according to the offerings, and, with sellers somewhat reserved, prices finished at about the best point, though still marking a slight decline for near months, afternoon cables appearing to have no effect. C.i.f. parcels No. 1 Manitoba arrived sold at 43/9, April-May 43/10½, No. 3 afloat 41/9 to Liverpool, No. 3 Manitoba afloat and April-May 41/9, Rosario-Santa Fe June at 43/6 to Manchester. Graded red wheat futures opened ½d. per cental lower, further gave way ½d. to 1d., but afterwards improved, and, after slight fluctuations, closed steady, unchanged to ½d. lower on the day. Maize options nominally ½d. per cental lower.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.—BACON—Irish and Danish bacon remains firm, and in fair demand at late rates, latter attracting most attention. Canadian Wiltshires steadily held at recent currencies. The market for American bacon here is becoming steadier for most descriptions, owing to the firmness in Irish and Danish. With smaller arrivals of American expected at this port, more inquiry is experienced for some cuts, notably Wiltshires and bellies, with former dearer at 62/- to 66/-, while Cumberlands move fairly at higher prices of 63/- to 70/- and 65/- to 68/- for light and heavy weights, respectively. HAMS firm, and demand improving, especially for short cut, and prices show a hardening tendency. Shoulders in better request, and squares now raised to 54/- to 53/- per cwt. LARD on the spot in only moderate request at late rates for prime steam, but American refined the turn easier at 62/9 to 65/3 per cwt. CHEESE steady and nominal for Canadian, but New Zealand quiet at 87/- to 88/- per cwt. BUTTER nominally held at 218/- to 220/- per cwt., but Colonial steady at late rates. PATRICK KEHOE, LTD., Irish Bacon Curers and Lard Refiners. Importers of American Provisions. (Estd. 100 years.)—103 FRANCIS ST., DUBLIN.—(Advt.)

REFINED LARD FUTURES — LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.—Chicago finished worse than expected, and prices here generally gave way 3d. per cwt. during the early session, September exceptionally being unchanged. May sold at 62/6, June and July 63/-, and September 64/9 per cwt. With better afternoon cables values improved, market closing unchanged to 3d. dearer on the day. September sold at 65/-, May quoted 62/6 to 62/9, June 62/9 to 63/3, and July 63/- to 63/6 per cwt. Weekly settlement prices—May 62/9, June 63/3, July 63/6, September 65/- per cwt.

MANCHESTER, Tuesday.—BUTTER—With supplies of butter in limited compass prices were firmer; Danish finest quoted 216/- to 218/-, Swedish 210/- to 214/-, Finnish 203/- to 206/-, Irish creameries 190/- and New Zealands 174/- to 178/- per cwt. BACON in better demand, with Danish 2/- to 3/- dearer. LARD in quiet demand and easier at 67/6 per cwt. for English refined. CHEESE quietly steady; New Zealand quoted 88/- to 90/- per cwt. EGGS firmer; Irish 12/9 to 13/-, with Irish duck at 14/- to 14/3 per 120.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE, Tuesday.—There is little of fresh interest to report in fruit. Trade slow. Australian apples now featuring at 15/- to 22/- per box; oranges warty and irregular. English and Crumlin (Co. Dublin) tomatoes averaged 1/10 to 2/- and 2/1 per lb.; Canary Island 7/- to 8/- and 10/- per box. Cabbage and broccoli supply small; demand good at prices. Swedes of sound class also scarce and dear—tls., 6/- per cwt.; broccoli 4/- to 5/- and 5/6 per dozen, seconds 1/3 to 2/9 ditto, kidney beans 9d. per bundle, seakale 1/- to 1/6 ditto, York cabbage 48/- to 53/- and 90/-, extras up 103/- and 106/- per load, ditto in bags 9/-, rhubarb 3/- to 4/6, 5/-, 6/- and 7/6 per dozen bundles; lettuce 6d. to 1/-, selected 1/6 and 2/- per dozen, spinach 6d. to 8d. per tray, etc.; raddishes 6d. to 1/- per dozen bundles, round 1/- and 1/1 ditto, scallions 7d. to 10d. per bundle, leeks 8d. to 1/3 ditto, carrots 2/- to 2/9 per dozen bundles, parsnips 2/- to 2/6, thyme 2d. to 4d. per bunch, parsley 4d. to 6d. per tray.

DUBLIN POTATO, Tuesday.—Potatoes continue very scarce, and difficult to get in wholesale. Prices remain firm; 13/6 to 14/- per cwt. for reds, and 12/6 to 13/- per cwt. for whites; growthy and warty sorts less.

DUBLIN POULTRY, Tuesday.—Fowl in fair supply and demand. Chickens and fat ducks scarce and wanted; rabbits a fair trade at current rates, chickens 1/10 to 2/- per lb. dead, old fowl 1/6 to 2/-, fat hens (prime) 3/- to 3/6, seconds 2/- to 2/6 each, fat young ducks 4/6 to 5/6, extras 6/- each, seconds 3/- to 4/-, rabbits 7d. to 10d. and 1/- each.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG, Tuesday.—Trade here is practically running on Irish creams, and with increased supplies, values are lower, but at current rates there seems to be a steadier undertone. Creamery manufacturers are rather extreme in their quotations, as the dearness and scarcity of Danish produce at the other side of the water causes more inquiry for shipment of creams, and it is said in some cases that special dairies are making more for England than merchants can see their way to pay at this end. For prime quality creams price is 1/7 per lb., and mediums 1/6½, with lower grades around 1/6 per lb. Australian butter selling at 1/5½ to 1/6 per lb., whilst factories, which are in fair demand, are making 1/2 to 1/3, and for some special brands up to 1/4, or perhaps a shade more. Farmers' butter is scarcely quotable in absence of regular supplies. Very little change in the Egg market. Supplies are fairly liberal, and demand rather improved after recent check. Best case hen eggs make 11/3 to 12/6, and the small percentage of extra selected in retail parcels around 13/- to 13/6 per 120. Small and ordinary country eggs from 9/6 to 10/6 and 11/- per 120, according to character. Duck eggs in fair supply, but slow demand, and average from 11/- to 13/6 per 120.

CORK BUTTER, Tuesday.—The market continues steady. Choicest salted 172/- per cwt., creameries 168/- to 173/-, and farmers' fresh parcels 143/-.

DUBLIN FISH, Tuesday.—Moderate supply of white fish, including 277 boxes of mixed take from four steamers, amongst which was a nice proportion of black soles; 33 packages salmon came in. RAILWAYS BILL IN COMMITTEE.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS ONLY ONE MINOR ALTERATION.

BARRACKS FOR THE CIVIC GUARD.

In the Dail yesterday the Bill to continue the exceptional powers which the authorities possess in respect of the acquisition of barracks for the Civic Guard received a second reading.

The remainder of the session was devoted entirely to the consideration of the Railways Bill in Committee. A series of amendments was moved, but the Government stood firmly by the Bill, and only agreed to one minor alteration.

QUESTIONS.

DUTY ON MOTOR PARTS.

Replying to a question by Major Bryan Cooper, Mr. Blythe said that the total yield of duty on motor parts and accessories for the year ended 31st March last was approximately £39,000. It was impossible to estimate with any approach to accuracy the cost of collection.

Major Cooper—Did the Minister not take the factor of the cost of collection into account when he was considering whether he would repeal this duty or not?

Mr. Blythe—I do not think the cost of collection is very serious.

In reply to a further question by Major Cooper, Mr. Blythe said that the total yield of the duty on parts of musical instruments for the year ended 31st March last was approximately £8,000. It was impossible to estimate with any approach to accuracy the cost of collection.

RELIEF FOR FARMERS.

Mr. McGilligan, on behalf of the Minister for Agriculture, in answer to a question by Mr. Dineen, said that he was aware that many farmers were carrying on their business at a loss, and needed immediate relief. It was hoped to bring forward proposals designed to give some immediate relief to agriculture within the next two weeks. It would be impossible to deal adequately with the high cost of living by way of question and answer. The term over which land annuities were paid could not be extended. That was obvious, and was admitted by all farmers' organisations who had considered the question.

THE CIVIC GUARD.

735 STATIONS.

The second reading of the Civic Guard (Acquisition of Premises) Bill was taken.

Mr. O'Higgins explained that the object of the bill was to renew, for a year, the Act that was passed last year dealing with the compulsory acquisition of premises for the accommodation of the Civic Guard. The position at present was that out of a total establishment which provides for 837 stations, there were 735 occupied, leaving 81 still to be acquired. Of the 735, 376 were reported as unsuitable as permanent quarters, while 380 were reported as adequate for permanent occupation.

The compulsory power which last year's Act contained was exercised only in 42 cases. There were a number of cases still to be dealt with. In every case in which premises were acquired precaution was taken that no undue hardship was inflicted by the acquisition of the premises.

Mr. Johnson asked for some information respecting the police barracks that had been destroyed through the country. Many of these, he understood, were capable of being reconstructed and made habitable. What was the policy of the Government with regard to the rebuilding of these premises in respect of which compensation had been paid to the owners?

Mr. O'Higgins replied that this year's estimates for public works and buildings included £46,000 for new works, alterations and additions for guards' stations.

The second reading was agreed to.

RAILWAYS BILL.

THE CLEARING HOUSE.

The Committee stage of the Railways Bill was resumed.

Mr. T. J. O'Connell moved to insert before Section 11 a new clause as follows:—"(1) The amalgamated company shall for the purposes of the Irish Railway Clearing House and the Acts and regulations relating thereto be deemed to be a party to the clearing system in place of, and shall enjoy without diminution or limitation merely by reason of the amalgamation all the rights and privileges of, the amalgamating and absorbed companies from which it is constituted.

"(2) The Irish Railway Clearing House may submit to the railway tribunal and the tribunal shall settle a scheme to effect such alterations of the Acts and regulations applicable to the Irish Railway Clearing House as may be rendered necessary by reason of the constitution of the amalgamated company."

He said that a similar provision had been embodied in the British Act. The object of the amendment was to ensure that the new company would have all the rights and facilities to which the existing companies enjoyed.

Mr. McGilligan said that this provision had been omitted from the bill because the functions of the Railway Clearing House included other than railway services, and because its functions did not depend so much on statutes as on voluntary agreement.

Mr. Johnson urged that the new section should be inserted for the purpose of protecting the smaller companies against possible wrong.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce, in declining to accept the amendment, said that the primary function of the Railway Clearing House was the dealing with receipts, and that was a matter of voluntary agreement. Voting power meant nothing. He regarded the amendment as useless.

On a division the amendment was defeated by 37 votes to 10.

The third schedule of the bill sets out the provisions which will apply to persons who, at the date of the passing of the Act, have been for a period of not less than five years officers or servants of any amalgamating company or absorbed company. Among other things, the schedule provides that every such existing officer or servant shall, as from the date of the amalgamation or absorption, become an employé of the amalgamated company, and that the company may abolish the office of any existing employé which it deems to be unnecessary.

The following amendment was moved by Mr. Davin:—"The provisions of the third schedule shall apply to every person who on 3rd April was an officer or servant of the Irish Railway Clearing House as if the Irish Railway Clearing House were substituted in the said schedule for the amalgamated company and the persons aforesaid were officers or servants of the amalgamating company."

Mr. McGilligan explained that acceptance of the amendment would mean that if any steamship companies associated with the railway companies decided to discharge servants the amalgamating companies would have to bear the burden of the discharge of these men.

Mr. Davin said that it would be a great injustice to the servants of the Irish Clearing House not to get the protection which his amendment asked for them.

The amendment was rejected by 38 votes to 9.

THE TRIBUNAL.

Mr. Hewat moved an amendment to delete from Section 12, which deals with the constitution of the Railway Tribunal, the words "for a period of five years from the passing of this Act."

President Cosgrave said that they had realised that it would be necessary to extend the life of the tribunal, but it was hoped that the greater tribunal would have discharged its function in five years.

The Attorney-General referred Deputy Hewat to the function clause, and said that it was intended when the great weight of the work had been disposed of at the end of five years that the legal member should be replaced by a judge of the High Court. It was thought that if the period were not stated there might be difficulty in removing this member and substituting a judge for him.

The amendment was withdrawn.

Mr. Hewat moved a further amendment with the object of increasing the number of the members of the Railway Tribunal from three to five, in order to make it of a more representative character.

President Cosgrave said that they wanted a Tribunal which would form its judgments, not as men did on a jury, but as a body that they could look to confidently for an accurate judgment.

Mr. Good said that the President seemed to look upon commercial men with rather a narrow mind, and seemed to think that commercial men were limited to a particular line of business, and that they had very little knowledge outside that particular line. Their experience, he said, was not so limited. The President should remove from his mind the idea that if he were to take an ordinary business man such a man would not be capable of performing duties connected with this tribunal.

TOO EXPENSIVE.

President Cosgrave said that if they were to get the type of man Deputy Good had in mind it would be rather expensive. It was not easy to wrench oneself away from business to take up a matter of this sort. He had had experience of a good many business men on public boards, and had found some of them excellent. The man he had in his mind for the Tribunal as being experienced in commercial affairs was an accountant.

The amendment was declared lost.

Mr. T. J. O'Connell moved an amendment, the object of which was to throw all the expenses of the Railway Tribunal upon the Amalgamated Company. He said that he did not think it reasonable that the State should be called upon to bear any of the expenses.

Mr. Johnson said that the whole of the proceedings of the Tribunal would be to the advantage of the railway company.

The President said that in all justice and equity the State was bound to contribute its share towards the expenses of the Railway Tribunal.

Mr. O'Mara remarked that while the Tribunal would undoubtedly extend a protecting arm over the railway companies it would not guarantee to the public that the rates they paid in the past would not be exceeded in the future.

The President, replying to these criticisms, said that if the Tribunal was not a success, and if it did not achieve the purpose for which it was intended, some other measures would have to be adopted. "We expect," he added, "that the public and the State will get the benefits resultant from this measure, and if that is not the case the bill must be reconsidered."

The amendment was rejected by 36 votes cast against to 10 votes for.

SELLING SHARES.

Section 14 was allowed to stand part of the bill.

Major Cooper moved an amendment to Section 15, which precludes members of the Railway Tribunal from holding shares in any transport undertaking. The amendment was to the effect that the section should not apply to temporary or additional members of the Railway Tribunal.

He said that the Government were asking rather too much from a person who might only act for two months in requiring him to sell his shares in even the London Omnibus Company or the P. and O. Steamship Company.

Mr. McGilligan said that he would undertake to consider what necessity there was for amendment.

Major Cooper withdrew his amendment.

Major Cooper moved, with regard to the general panel of the additional and temporary members of the Tribunal, that two persons should be representatives of the interests of Labour, and two persons should be representative of the interests of passengers. As regards the latter he suggested that the Minister should consult the commercial travellers' organisations.

The amendment was adopted.

SHIPPING INTERESTS.

Mr. Hewat moved an amendment to the section which deals with the constitution of the panel, from which additional temporary members of the Tribunal shall be drawn. It suggested that eight persons instead of four (as in the bill) should be nominated, with a view to having three representatives of the shipping interest on the panel, the others being representatives of the railway companies, and two persons, who are experts in finance or otherwise qualified, to assist the Tribunal. He urged the importance of the claim, in this respect, of the cross-Channel shipping companies.

Mr. McGilligan, the Minister in charge of the bill, said that the tribunal would deal with railway rates and not with shipping.

Mr. Davin said that besides the rates the tribunal would have to deal with diversion of traffic and with the disputes that were almost certain to arise in that connection. The successful working of the whole bill, he said, would depend upon the manner in which Clause 29, which related to the protection of the ports, would be carried out. He supported the amendment.

Mr. Hewat appealed to the Minister to recognise the claims of the shipping companies, and said that he would drop the claim with respect to the financial experts.

Mr. McGilligan said that he did not see why the amendment should be pressed. On principle there was an objection to having steamship representatives on a panel which would deal only with railway rates.

Mr. Davin—What about the question of diversion of traffic? Would they not be concerned about that?

Mr. McGilligan—They might be concerned, but they are not the people to consult. We are not going to be concerned with people outside this country.

The amendment was defeated.

Progress was reported, and the Dail adjourned until five o'clock to-day. The suggestion that the House should not meet until five o'clock was made by Mr. Gorey and agreed to by the President on the House consenting to sit until 10.30 o'clock to-night.

At 9.30 o'clock to-night Captain Redmond will be given the opportunity of stating a case for the Town Tenants Bill introduced by him in the Dail some weeks ago. The first business will be the consideration of the remaining Budget resolutions, after which the Committee stage of the Railways Bill will be resumed.

The Business End of a Corn is the Root

THE PART THAT CAUSES ALL THE PAIN BY PRESSING ON THE SORE JOINT AND TENDER SENSITIVE NERVES.

THE TOP DOESN'T MATTER

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotions, plasters, etc., doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

Also it hurts, and the root just sprouts right up again, so your corn soon has a brand new top on it bigger than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part or core that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out. A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any chemist will have it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE IRISH REGIMENTS.

LETTER FROM CAPTAIN HOLLAND, V.C.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Your correspondents, Mr. Denis Shanahan and "Clare Ex-Serviceman," are to be congratulated on their spirited action in directing attention to the defamatory suggestion conveyed by District Justice Goff, at Castleblayney on the 7th inst., that the British troops were objectively brutalised by rum before being sent to the charge in Flanders. A more gross libel on the chivalrous tradition and fair name of the gallant Irish Brigades in the World War would be difficult to imagine. As unjust as it is injudicious, the suggestion casts aspersion on our glorious dead, whilst offering unqualified insult to the legions that survived.

One wonders whether the District Justice quite realised the entire significance of his remarks at the time, or whether he may not have overlooked the fact that he was merely inviting ridicule. Popularity as a District Justice or otherwise is not to be gained by any ignorant distortion of fact—still less by offering insult to any section of the community, however small.

It remains to be seen whether such representations as have been made through the medium of the Irish Legion of Ex-Servicemen as well as through a prominent Dail representative may not prove effective in reminding the District Justice that a modification of his views and speech would be desirable during the period when he occupies the impartial position with which he happens to be honoured.—Yours, etc.,

J. V. Holland, V.C., Captain.

THE TOWN TENANTS BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—There is an aspect of the Town Tenants Bill that is urgent at the present time, and to which I did not refer in my letter of the 6th inst. It is the position of those persons, principally ladies, who let their houses for the summer months and are at present making arrangements to that end. Many of these ladies (whose incomes have been reduced by the war or other recent events) regularly look forward to augment their slender means by letting their houses in this way, but it is no exaggeration to say that these ladies would in many cases be absolutely ruined if this Bill were passed, and that, of course, without the slightest fault on their part. Suppose, for example, that a lady living at Greystones lets her house regularly every year, for, say, £60 for the three summer months. When the tenancy ended, instead of paying a cheque for £60, her tenant might inform her that he wished to sell his interest, and, if the lady wished to buy back the right to possession of her own house, and would not agree to her tenant's terms, the tenant could go to the Court which the Bill proposes to set up, with the result that that Court would be bound to fix the price that the lady would have to pay, in order to recover possession, at not less than £2,400 or more than £3,600. It seems grotesque, but such is the provision in the Bill. Let there be no mistake about it, the wording of this portion of the Bill is mandatory—"the Court shall fix the price, which shall be not less than ten nor more than fifteen years' purchase of the rent then lawfully payable by the tenant." Picture the feelings of the poor lady who, looking forward to receiving a sum of £60, is confronted with a demand for thousands of pounds, which, of course, she would have no means of paying.

I see that objection has been taken to the Bill's being described as a Bolshevist measure. I quite agree; for in my opinion the Bill is a great advance upon Bolshevist methods. In Bolshevist countries, in order that a man may get possession of another man's house, it is necessary to resort to violence and bloodshed, possibly even to murder; but under this Bill nothing of the kind is necessary, as, the Court having fixed the price that the landlord has to pay at such a figure that the landlord's interest in his property becomes a minus quantity, he simply hands over possession of his property to his tenant without further ado. All is done quietly and in due order; no unpleasant scenes occur, but the result is the same in either case.

Another supporter of the Bill suggests that a tenant who has remained in his house for a number of years will have paid in rent more than the house originally cost to build. Certainly; why not? If I, instead of investing my capital in building a house, invest it with a public company, paying a good dividend—say, the Imperial Tobacco Company—in the course of years I shall have received in dividends more than the sum I originally invested. Would anyone venture to suggest that because of that fact the company were entitled to confiscate my capital and that I must be thankful for merely having received such good dividends? In other words, if I do what the Free State Government are begging us all to do—namely, build houses—I risk losing my capital altogether, whereas, if I send my capital across the water and invest it in a good English company, I am sure of my capital at any moment that I may wish to realise it for any purpose whatever. Who, under these circumstances, would invest his capital in Ireland? Could anyone devise a measure more calculated to drive all money out of the country?

Herein lies the distinction between houses and land. In the case of the former, unless you can get men to invest their money in building, the subject-matter of the proposed legislation will not even exist, whereas in the case of land, on the other hand, no effort on man's part will increase the acreage of the Free State by one square foot, barring, of course, our old friend the Boundary Commission.

One glance at the Bill shows any legal practitioner that it has been framed upon the Land Act of 1881, embodying the principles of "the three F's"—fixity of tenure, free sale and fair rents—quite oblivious to the fact, already pointed out, that wholly different principles apply to land and to house property. Moreover, a good deal of water has passed under the bridge since 1881. Then any stick was good enough to beat a landlord with; now the "atmosphere" has completely changed: these are Irish landlords, paying Irish taxes into an Irish Exchequer. The Government is even credited with endeavouring to induce people to build houses—strange as it may appear to the promoters of this bill—since every house that is built represents an additional source of revenue to the coffers of our sadly impoverished State.

Since 1881, too, a great European war has raged and waned, with a consequence that for the past ten years or so house-building has been at a complete stand-still. The result is the crucial fact of the present situation—that half the people in the towns are clamouring for houses that do not even exist. Have the promoters of this Bill any idea of the acute house shortage that exists at present in towns like Dublin, where, even if there is only a rumour that a house is about to become vacant, there are hundreds of applicants? Moreover, the boys and girls of 1914 are now men and women, anxious in many cases to marry and have a home of their own; but where can they hope to get houses? In this state of affairs the promoters of this Bill come along and calmly suggest provisions that would put an end to all house-building in the Free State from now on. All existing tenants, it appears, are to be made quite secure, but those who are not fortunate enough to have a house at all are to be left out in the cold, as well as all succeeding generations of Irish men and women. And when these present tenants are graciously pleased to leave a landlord's house they are to be entitled to fleece him to practically the whole extent of his property. Was ever a measure so selfishly conceived or drawn with a more callous disregard of the rights of others?

It is only right to state that many town tenants are wholly opposed to the proposed measure. Some, indeed, treat it as a joke, never intended to be taken seriously; but others are extremely indignant and emphatically repudiate its confiscatory provisions and object to the ridicule and contempt that it has engendered. They consider that they have been very badly let down and that the town tenants' cause has suffered such a serious set-back that it will take years in which to recover.—Yours, etc.,

Albert D. Bolton.

Rathnasees, Bray, Co. Wicklow, May 13th, 1924.

THE PRISONERS.

Mr. Baxter, of the Farmers' Party, has given notice of the following motion for discussion by the Dail on the 21st inst.:—

"That this Dail, cognisant of a return to peaceful and more stable conditions in the country, and aware of the approach of the Tailteann Games, with their historic associations of peace and good-will amongst Irishmen of all sections, is of opinion that the time has arrived when all untried or sentenced political prisoners should be released, and 'men who are on the run' for political offences be free to return to their homes."

HEALTH INSURANCE IN THE NORTH.

A COMPARISON WITH DUBLIN.

On a vote for £110,100, in the Northern House of Commons yesterday, to complete the sum necessary to defray contributions and grants in aid of the cost of benefit and expenses of administration under the National Health Insurance Acts, the Minister of Labour said that the figure in the estimates disclosed a decrease as compared with 1923 of £4,175. The reduction was partly due to closer estimating, and partly to the reduction in administrative allowances to approved societies from 4s. 10d. to 4s. 5d. per insured person per annum.

Since the Ministry took over control of Health Insurance they had been able to introduce considerable economies. In the first place there had been three Commissioners in Ireland, but they had been able to get on in Northern Ireland without a Commissioner. In addition, there were three medical advisers, while here any little work that they required to be done had been done by the Home Office at a moderate cost. A Legal Adviser and his staff were also in existence in Dublin, but here they had not had to seek any device of that kind. Savings had also been introduced by having a combined Health Inspectorate. The benefits paid directly to their sick workers was more than the total amount collected in contributions from the employers and workers. All the cost of administration and the creating of the large reserves to keep the fund solvent had been paid out of the State contribution of two-ninths of the benefit actually paid.

It was gratifying to know that the fund was in a sound financial position, and he wished that he could say the same about the Unemployed Insurance Fund. He was not, however, dismayed as regards that fund, because, although they had passed through trying times, which had imposed a serious drain on the Unemployment Fund, he had reason for assuming that the worst was over, and that the drain upon it in the future would be nothing like what it had been since they took over that Parliament.

Having referred to the clean-out made by the Free State in regard to National Health Insurance, he said that this had caused some little inconvenience to his Department and their insured persons, because 53,000 of their people were insured in Southern Ireland Societies, and had to be provided for in Societies in Northern Ireland. He was glad to say that that had been done without inconvenience or loss to the insured persons.

Mr. Coote said that he wished to know when the Insurance Act would be amended; when the border question would be settled, and other serious matters of that kind. The first thing that the people in rural districts would demand would be either the amendment or repeal of the Insurance Act. There was no necessity for the insurance benefit in agricultural districts, and as an agricultural representative he would contest an election in his constituency upon the point, for he knew that the people did not want National Health Insurance.

Mr. Mark said that Northern Ireland was 60 per cent. rural, and he contended that agriculturalists were paying much more than their proper share of National Health Insurance benefit claims.

Mr. Gordon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Labour, in reply to the criticisms, said that it was not correct to say that rural workers did not desire the continuance of Health Insurance benefit; on the contrary, they were pressing to have the Act extended so that they might be brought under the provisions for unemployment benefit as well.

The vote was passed.

OTHER VOTES.

A vote for £51,029 was adopted for agricultural services.

A vote of £7,187 was passed for Ordnance geographical surveys and a vote of £8,000 for secret services. In regard to the latter, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Finance expressed the hope that conditions in Northern Ireland during the coming year would render it unnecessary to expend the sum, but it was considered desirable to have it available if it should be required.

Childhood's Skin Troubles

Save your child from ringworm, impetigo, eczema, rashes, eruptions and all skin ailments with Germolene, the Aseptic Skin Dressing.

Mrs. G. Hudson, of 1, Victor Terrace, Burnham Street, Sherwood, Nottingham, writes as follows regarding her little boy: "My little boy contracted ringworm, and the trouble was exceedingly persistent. As a matter of fact I used over twenty boxes of ordinary ointment without achieving any benefit whatsoever. Then, however, I decided to try Germolene, and now I am pleased to say the boy is completely cured. To bring about this result, I had to use only two tins of Germolene, and I only wish I had tried it sooner, for then my little boy need not have suffered so long."

PUBLIC NOTICES.

ALLIANCE AND DUBLIN CONSUMERS' GAS COMPANY.

IMPORTANT PUBLIC NOTICE.

DISCONTINUANCE OF GAS SUPPLY.

The Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company, having received Notice from the Irish Transport Union that a Strike will take place at 10 o'clock to-night, is reluctantly compelled to announce that, as from that hour this evening, it is impossible to maintain the Gas Supply to Blackrock, Kingstown, Dalkey, Killiney, Bray, and the outlying districts.

Within the city, a supply will be available until noon to-morrow (Wednesday).

The Company greatly regrets the disorganisation and inconvenience which a Strike at the Gas Works must entail, but the forbearance of consumers is claimed, seeing that every possible effort, both on the part of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce and the Company, to secure a peaceful settlement by amicable negotiations, has failed.

The French Elections.

M. Raymond Poincaré has shared the fate of all politicians, and his crushing defeat at the French elections, although surprising in its magnitude, is merely the logical result of a foolish policy. One by one the outstanding figures of the Paris Peace Conference have been swept aside by the inexorable progress of human thought. President Wilson in January, 1919, seemed to be destined to lead mankind for a decade; within a few months he was a broken man. M. Clemenceau, the father of France's victory in the war, was at the height of his popularity on the eve of his downfall; and Mr. Lloyd George seemed to have defied the evolutionary processes of politics when he, too, was banished into the wilderness. Now M. Poincaré's hour has struck. Few men in modern times have exerted such enormous personal influence on the conduct of European affairs. Since the days of the Cannes Conference he has been the virtual dictator of the Continent. The time has not yet come to gauge the effect of his policy on the world's history, but there is no doubt at all that his stubborn personality has been the chief stumbling-block in the path of Europe's recovery during the last five years. He was an excellent President of the Republic, but as Premier he must be counted among the world's splendid failures. Single-minded, a great patriot, and a man of the most unimpeachable integrity, Raymond Poincaré was the slave of a relentlessly logical mind. He lacked that element of sympathy which lifted men like Thiers and Gambetta out of the common ruck, and now he has fallen a victim to his own rigidity.

In the last Chamber the Bloc National was supreme. Now it will be in a minority of about forty. Conservatives, Republicans and Radicals, who gave M. Poincaré his majority, have lost seats almost everywhere. The two wings of the Republican Party alone lost more than 120 seats, and the Radicals have been reduced from forty-eight to thirty-four. All the parties of the Left, on the other hand, have increased their representation. The Radical Socialists gained fifty, and the Unified Socialists forty-eight seats, while the Communists strengthened their party from twelve to twenty-nine. Roughly, the supporters of the Poincaré Government have secured 274 seats out of a total of 584, and fourteen results have yet to be declared. Some of the best known men in the French Parliament have fallen by the way. M. Lasteyrie, formerly Minister of Finance, was one of the first to be defeated, and was followed quickly by his colleague, M. Maunoury, Minister for Home Affairs. M. Leon Daudet, leader of the Royalist Conservatives, was overwhelmed, and M. André Tardieu, M. Clemenceau's closest political associate, was rejected by Seine et Oise, a constituency which returned at the head of the poll M. Marty, the Communist chieftain who led the mutiny of the French Fleet in the Black Sea. MM. Briand and Herriot, leaders of the Left Bloc, were returned triumphantly in the South, where they had the electoral assistance of M. Caillaux; and even M. Malvy, who has just come back from a five years' exile for treason, gained a seat in the Department of Lot.

Probably M. Poincaré will resign on June 1st, when the new Parliament meets, and will be succeeded either by M. Briand or by M. Herriot. It would be very unwise to assume, however, that a change of Government in France will involve drastic changes in foreign policy; for in France, as in every other country, home affairs invariably play an important part at election times. M. Poincaré has been defeated not because he is responsible for the Ruhr adventure, but because taxes are too high in France, the cost of living is increasing, and the recent fall in the value of the franc caused serious loss to the people. Of course, it is true that all these evils are due in varying degree to the Ruhr affair; but the ordinary French voter does not stop to analyse ultimate causes, and, while he is determined to secure lower taxation and cheaper food, he is almost equally determined to insist on the continued coercion of Germany. Under a Liberal Government popular opinion may undergo a change in the right direction, but for the moment no Government that proposed to jettison M. Poincaré's foreign policy would remain very long in office. Virtually every group in the French Chamber, with the exception of the Communists, is violently anti-German in its views, and neither M. Briand nor M. Herriot can hope—even if he should desire—to induce a more reasonable attitude in the immediate future. The education of the French public will take time; but it has begun, and, with M. Poincaré out of the way, the prospects of peace in Europe will improve apace.

A Licensing Bill.

The Free State Government will introduce a licensing bill at an early date, and the Minister for Home Affairs has given an outline of its proposals to deputations from the liquor trade and from the temperance interests. Apparently, the Government contemplates no immediate revolution in the control of the drink traffic; and the real problem—the existence of more than 15,000 public-houses in this small State—will not be touched at all. The suppression of licences would involve compensation, and no demand of this sort will be made on the nation's purse until a commission has reported on the subject. Furthermore, the new bill will not deal with the bona fide system—a grave and strange omission, since it is not to be supposed that the Government intends to compensate any publican for the loss of this dubious form of trade. Under the bill the hours of business for public-houses will be from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., except on Saturdays, when the closing hour will be 9.30 p.m.; and it is said that, in respect of hours of business, registered clubs will be put on the same footing as public-houses. This latter reform, if it is enforced strictly, ought to mitigate one of the worst abuses of the liquor traffic; but it will not be carried without strong resistance from the clubs. The most important and most drastic provision of the new bill is a welcome concession not merely to the temperance movement, but to all who desire the moral and social betterment of our people. The Government proposes to abolish the almost universal practice by which strong drink, groceries, and sometimes clothes and hardware are sold in the same room and virtually at the same counter. Under the terms of the bill drink traffic and the publican's other business must be conducted in separate compartments—each in a special portion of the premises, with its own separate entrance. By this reform, which is lamentably overdue, many temptations to drinking will be removed, and young children will be no longer in daily contact with the sources of so much of our national poverty and wretchedness. Already the "trade" is up in arms against the proposal, and an attempt may be made to secure its postponement for consideration by the commission which will investigate the reduction of licences. We hope that any such attempt will fail. It is urged that the proposed reconstruction of all the public-houses would cost some four million pounds. This figure is grotesque; but, whatever the cost may be, it is perfectly just and reasonable that the abuses of any business shall be removed at the expense of the persons who conduct that business and make large profits out of it. We are glad to learn that the main purpose of the new bill is "to administer the whole licensing law more stringently." To-day the people's mental and physical health is being undermined by wholesale and flagrant breaches of that law in every one of the twenty-six counties.

The Motorist's Burden.

Yesterday, at the Dublin Mansion House, a representative meeting protested against the high taxation with which the motoring community is burdened. The two principal causes of complaint are the import duty on motor cars and parts entering the Free State, and the horse-power tax. The meeting expressed its disappointment at the failure of the Government to act on the report of the Fiscal Committee, which recommended the abolition of the import duty on motor parts. It was suggested that the import duties of 33⅓ per cent. on foreign cars and of 22½ per cent. on British cars ought to be reduced to 20 and 10 per cent. respectively. This duty must be regarded purely as a means of raising revenue, since there is virtually no motor-manufacturing industry in the Free State, and present conditions offer little encouragement to prospective pioneers. With regard to the horse-power tax, the motoring community is convinced that a revival of the petrol tax would be a fairer and better policy in every way. In some respects a tax on petrol would come to the same thing as a graduated tax on horse-power, since the more highly-powered cars use more petrol. The original object of the horse-power tax was to raise money for the repair and improvement of the roads; but the bargain has not been kept, and the condition of the roads constitutes a sore hardship to highly taxed motorists. As one of the speakers said, motoring on the roads in the Free State is neither a luxury nor a pleasure. We can sympathise with the Government, which in its financial straits can ignore no possible source of income. Nevertheless, it ought not to put excessive burdens on a class that is absolutely necessary to the country's social and commercial welfare.

National Thrift.

The Central Savings Committee is making a gallant effort to interest the people of the Free State in the vital matter of thrift. The appeal has received support from patriotic citizens of all creeds and of every shade of political opinion, and it is worthy of the very widest response. Free State Savings Certificates constitute an ideal form of investment for persons of small means. They bear good interest, free of income tax; they can be bought in small amounts; they are guaranteed by the State, and may be regarded as absolutely "gilt-edged." Saving in small amounts at regular intervals is an excellent moral discipline and fosters many of the virtues of good citizenship. In addition to the comfortable feeling that provision is being made for his own emergency, the investor in National Saving Certificates can claim to be rendering a very real service to the State. It is only by a great collective effort that the ravages caused by recent years of strife and turmoil can be repaired. A particular appeal is being made to the youth of the nation, and stress is being laid on the educational aspect of the question. School teachers, indeed, can be the most potent agents in this valuable campaign. A little money saved during school days may make all the differences in the battle of later years. The Savings Committee advocates the formation of saving clubs and associations that would enable the poorest to co-ordinate their efforts and to produce a result which otherwise would be impossible.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S JUBILEE NURSES.

LETTER FROM LADY KENMARE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I, through the hospitality of your columns, place before the people of Ireland an appeal on behalf of the Queen Victoria Jubilee Institute for Nurses, which, I venture to think, justifies my asking them to subscribe generously to a fund which I, as President of the Irish Branch, in conjunction with the Irish Arrears Committee, am endeavouring to raise for the purpose of continuing the work of the Institute in Ireland?

Since the inception of the Institute in 1889 about 200 trained and skilled nurses have been employed in the homes of Irish poor, caring the sick and comforting the afflicted. Each nurse sent out by the Institute has had at least three years of hospital training in approved hospitals or infirmaries. In addition, it has been found necessary to give each nurse a special course with a view to teaching them to adapt their hospital training to the various surroundings of the sick poor with whom they have to deal, and for this purpose each nurse goes through a special district training for a period of six months and attends six sets of lectures on this branch of their work, given by qualified medical men.

In isolated districts the nurses are required to have midwifery qualifications, and these cannot be obtained under a further six months' training. The primary duty of the nurses is to attend without distinction of creed those who are unable to employ a private nurse in their own homes. The services of the nurses have been made available not only in towns and villages, but throughout the population scattered in the most remote portions of the country.

Nurses of the Institute are to be found discharging their duties among the poor on the islands off the west coast as well as on the northern coast of Antrim, the congested districts of Mayo and Galway, the hills of Cork and Kerry, and the overflowing population of our City of Dublin. Each nurse is visited twice a year by the superintendent or an inspector, and much of the success of the work is attributable to this fact.

In the year 1922 the following cases were dealt with:—

Medical and surgical cases	316,603
Midwifery cases	1,672
Maternity and child welfare cases	36,776

The total number of visits paid in connection with these cases were 706,620, or an average of over 3,500 visits per nurse for the year.

From the foregoing it can be readily appreciated what a loss to the sick it would be if, owing to lack of funds, the Institute was unable to carry on the work. Before the inauguration of the Free State the Central Executive used to allocate an annual sum to be spent in Ireland of about £2,000. This source of income is, however, no longer available, and the Irish Advisory Committee must now carry on alone, and the most that they count on at present from every source is a yearly income of £400. A further £1,500 a year at least must be found if the organisation is not to be disbanded and the nurses dismissed.

I feel sure that this appeal for funds to form a capital sum to provide for this yearly income will not fall on deaf ears, and that the people of Ireland, North, South, East and West, will by generous contributions enable the Committee not only to meet their present expenses, but also to extend and enlarge their activities in districts where nurses are needed, and so bring comfort and happiness into many a poor home. In pleading the cause of our nurses I feel that I am pleading for Ireland's health and strength, out of which must grow comfort and self-respect, and I am pleading for the act of Christian charity by which we recognise our kinship towards our neighbours.

Subscriptions and donations may be sent to me, to the Queen Victoria Jubilee Nurses Association, 63 Dawson street, Dublin.—Yours, etc.,

ELIZABETH KENMARE, President.

NEW LONDON PLAYS.

"TONI" AT THE SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday.

When Mr. Jack Buchanan, who has recently returned from America, came on the stage at the Shaftesbury Theatre last night he received a wildly enthusiastic reception from a packed house. It was somewhat surprising, for this remarkable ovation took place before he had opened his mouth, or, what is far more important, moved his feet. At the fall of the final curtain the applause was again deafening, but this time Mr. Buchanan had earned it. He danced, sang and acted with humour and vigour the whole evening, and carried the burden of the piece on his shoulders with ability.

Mr. Jack Buchanan has made great strides in his profession lately, and is not only a distinguished dancer, but a comedian of great merit.

"Toni," like most musical comedies, has a very slight plot, which is not worth detailing, especially as Dublin saw it before it came to London. What matters is the charming and amusing libretto, the beautiful and sprightly chorus, the dainty dancing and sweet singing of June, and the comedy of Veronica Brady and Douglas Furber. The latter is partly responsible for the lyrics, and, in conjunction with Harry Graham, is to be congratulated on presenting "Toni," which is, without doubt, one of the brightest and best shows of its kind London has seen for some time.

"COME IN."

Miss Lee White, wisely taking the advice of her friends the critics, has considerably altered her song-show "Come In," with the very pleasing result that a good entertainment is now provided. The best of the old numbers have been retained, and new sketches, songs, and dances introduced.

"Bonzo," sung by Miss Lee White, with the little trained dog, is still the best number in the Revue, but all the other items go with a swing in this revised version, which had a cordial and encouraging reception from a full house. There was no booing on this occasion, and Miss White, in a little speech, said that the artists were as happy as she hoped the audience were.

Lord Trimlestown, who is sixty-three to-day, is the eighteenth holder of this old Irish Barony, which was conferred in 1461 on Sir Robert Barnewall, of Trimlestown, Co. Meath. On the death of the sixteenth Baron in 1879 the title fell into abeyance until 1891, when the late Lord Trimlestown established his claim; but he died before the proceedings were completed, and there was a further delay before his brother, the present peer, was confirmed in his rights. By his first marriage Lord Trimlestown had two sons and three daughters. His elder son, Captain the Hon. Reginald Barnewall, Leinster Regiment, died of wounds in action in 1918, and his surviving son, the Hon. Charles Barnewall, is a lieutenant in the Irish Guards.

To-day Sir John Peter FitzGerald, M.C., celebrates his fortieth birthday. In 1916 he succeeded his father as third Baronet and twenty-first Knight of Kerry. The latter title dates back to the time when FitzThomas FitzGerald, Lord of Decies and Desmond, conferred the titles of the White Knight, the Knight of Glyn and the Knight of Kerry on his three sons by his second marriage, and, by virtue of his royal seigniory as a Count Palatine, these titles were formally recognised by the Crown. The present Baronet was formerly in the Royal Horse Guards, served through the European war and is now Major-General in the Reserve of Officers. He married Lady Mildred Murray, daughter of the seventh Earl of Dunmore and widow of Brigadier-General Gilbert B. S. Follett, D.S.O. The heir is his only brother, Captain Arthur Brinsley FitzGerald, Irish Guards.

LONDON LETTER.

THE RUMANIAN VISIT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, TUESDAY NIGHT.

The City of London gave a very hearty welcome to the King and Queen of Rumania to-day when they paid a State visit to the Guildhall to receive an address and to be entertained at luncheon. The pathways were lined with people, and, while the decorations were not extensive, they were sufficient to brighten the rather drab streets, since the day was dull and sunless. The Queen was a radiant figure in mauve, with a wide-brimmed hat in a deep shade of the same colour. She seemed greatly to enjoy the cheering of the crowd, and constantly bowed and waved her hand as she drove along. The King, looking very amiable, seemed content to leave acknowledgment of the welcome to his Queen, though he saluted now and again.

At the Guildhall everything was perfectly done. The City on such occasions is at its best, and the scene in the great Library, where the visitors were presented with the address, was imposing. The Prime Minister and Mr. Stanley Baldwin were both in Privy Councillor's uniform but Mr. Thomas, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Clynes were in morning clothes. Mr. Churchill, Mr. Asquith and other well-known men were present. On the dais were many members of the Royal Family, while the Lord Mayor, in robes of red velvet, ermine cape and gold chain, with the Lady Mayoress by his side, represented the City Fathers with great dignity. Both King and Queen seemed impressed by the proceedings, and relieved when the more formal portion of the ceremonial was over. After the luncheon the Royal party drove back to Buckingham Palace, the whole route being lined with people, mainly women, who cheered the Queen enthusiastically.

M. Poincare's Fall.

The fall of the Poincaré Cabinet in France has given great delight in Government circles here, and Labour members do not attempt to conceal the pleasure they feel that the policy of M. Poincaré has met with such a rebuff. Labour members seem to be of the opinion that any new Government set up in France in the present circumstances will at once depart from the Ruhr programme of the late Government; but in this they are likely to be disappointed. It is understood in diplomatic circles here that France will not depart from the path marked out by M. Poincaré, except in small details. Germany will be made to pay if France can make her do it, and any Government departing from this policy will have a short life.

The Boundary Question.

The meeting in Committee Room 14 at the House of Commons to-morrow to consider the Irish boundary question will be of an important character. The gathering has been called by Captain Craig, Lord Curzon and Sir Henry Page-Croft, and the various points arising out of the situation are to be fully discussed. Though there is a desire to show Northern Ireland that she does not lack the support of her friends in this crisis, there is a very strong hope that everything possible will be done to avoid further strife. The proceedings are to be private.

The boundary question to-day showed no new aspect. The Government has not yet had an opportunity of considering the position of affairs relating to Northern Ireland and its refusal to appoint a representative on the Commission. I understand that the decision of the Northern Government on this point is unchangeable, a point made clear in its reply to the British Government.

Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Lloyd George is on the war path, and, following upon his speech of yesterday, a meeting of the Liberal Party is to be held to-morrow to discuss the next move to be taken against the Socialists. Mr. Lloyd George has taken heart at the political recovery of his friend, ... Briand, in France, and is inclined to think that there soon will be a wave of Liberalism in this country. To-morrow he is to reveal his plans for a campaign in the country, which is to be fierce and merciless and to begin at once. Well-known Liberals in the House of Commons will be sent to attack Socialist strongholds, and the weakness of the Socialist claims is to be revealed. The failure of the Government to deal with the unemployment question has given Mr. Lloyd George a weapon of which he will avail himself to the uttermost. Should the decision to take Liberals away from the House to speak in the constituencies be adhered to, the Government may find itself in a rather awkward position.

Royalty at Wembley.

Preparations are being made at the Exhibition to deal with crowds of a quarter of a million people to-morrow on the occasion of the visit of the King and Queen and the King and Queen of Rumania. The Royal party is to spend several hours at Wembley and will take lunch in one of the restaurants. The Royal Pavilion, a specially built house for the use of the King and Queen, will be opened during the afternoon, while the first firework display is to be given in the evening, and it is hoped that this will attract many visitors. Arrangements have been made for the Kings and Queens to go round the Exhibition on one of the little electric cars, thus saving much time and fatigue.

The Exhibition's Lure.

Up to the end of last week the total number of visitors to the Empire Exhibition was 720,000. This seems to be rather a small attendance for such a marvellous show, but it seems that the London people have not yet taken to going in any considerable numbers. It is true that Wembley is too far away for an evening visit; and, as a result, many London people are waiting until they can take a whole day. Fast trains run every few minutes from Baker street Station directly to the Exhibition in ten minutes, but it takes a long time to get to Baker street. I find it difficult to get to any part of the Exhibition in less than an hour and a quarter from Fleet street. Country people are attending the Exhibition in large numbers, most of them making a day visit.

Irish Flowers.

There was a magnificent display of seasonal flowers at the fortnightly show of the Royal Horticultural Society to-day. Sir George Holford sent a most remarkable collection of amaryllis with enormous blooms. From Ireland Messrs. Watson and Sons, Killiney Nurseries, exhibited some very handsome specimens of the new crimson hardy broom, "Dorothy Walpole," raised at Mount Usher, County Wicklow. This is the first time that this plant, the richest in colour of any broom yet seen, has been sent out, and the first plant sold was bought by Lord Lambourne, the President of the Royal Horticultural Society.

State Concerts.

It is expected that State concerts, which were a feature of the Court fixtures of Victorian days, will be revived, and that the appointment of Sir Edward Elgar to the post of Master of Musick, announced in the London Gazette to-night, was made for that purpose. It is understood to be the wish of the Queen that there shall be no delay in the arranging for the first concert, which, it is hoped, will be held during the present season.

Last night's Dublin Gazette announced that the Executive Council has accepted the resignation of Commandant James O'Reilly's Commission as an officer of the Defence Forces of the Irish Free State.

M. POINCARE TO RESIGN.

PROBLEM OF A SUCCESSOR.

ATTACKS ON THE PRESIDENT.

FOREIGN POLICY.

NO CONFERENCE AT CHEQUERS.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Tuesday.

M. Poincaré has decided to resign. He will not do so at once, however, but will wait for the meeting of the Chamber at the beginning of June, and, in the interval, the Ministers will continue to carry on the work of their departments.

The Premier will still watch over Foreign Affairs, but he will not visit Mr. Macdonald at Chequers on Monday, and a letter is leaving for Downing street to-day making known the fact.

M. Poincaré's impending departure from office will certainly affect, if it does not postpone, the journey of M. Theunis and M. Hymans—the Belgian Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary—to meet Signor Mussolini at Milan at the end of the week. Whatever the Belgians may have had to say at the meeting will certainly have

OFFICIAL RETURNS.

The following are the official results of the elections:—

Conservatives	20
Republicans	117
Radicals and Radical Socialists	139
Republican Socialists	35
Socialists	102
Communists	29
Results still to come:—

Doubtful Result (in Nord Department)	1
The Right and Centre	264
The Left (including Communists)	305

been based on their recent interview with Mr. Macdonald, the terms of which were conditioned by the expectation that M. Poincaré would be victorious at the polls.

Now everything is changed, and M. Theunis, apart from the likelihood that he will find himself generally in closer sympathy with the more generous attitude to international affairs, to be expected from a Ministry of the Left in France, may even welcome the opportunity of detaching himself finally from the Ruhr policy.

No one knows who will be M. Poincaré's successor.

The interval will give the President of the Republic time to make up his mind what the interests of the country require. Delay, however, is distasteful to the Radical Press, which protests that after two wasted years France can badly afford to lose another three weeks at a moment when the reparations' iron is hot upon the anvil.

The Premier himself is said to think that M. Heriot should follow him, and that this is indicated by the way the country has voted. The Radical Socialists place his name first with M. Painlevé, M. Briand, M. Leon Blum (leader of the Unified Socialists), and M. Paul Boncour, but possible Ministries, headed by M. Briand and M. Loucheur, are also discussed.

This is chiefly by those who declare that there is little prospect of stable government depending wholly on the Left groups, which united with difficulty for the elections, but whose aims are divergent or opposed.

The position of such a Government cannot be easy. It will not be helped by the Communists (29 strong), and, between the Radicals on the one hand, and the Extreme Socialists on the other, are differences too wide to be adjusted.

In home policy it is already suggested that no more will be heard of the decree laws, but the new taxation has already been voted.

Will the new Ministry attempt to recast the whole financial scheme in favour of the workers and the army of employés and small officials, who swelled their majority on Sunday? Their adversaries are crying calamity upon them if they do, and it is prophesied that their majority will shrink to a dozen.

In foreign policy there can be no dramatic change, and the change will be the less because M. Poincaré had latterly added a good deal of water to the Nationalist wine of six months ago. What may be looked for is a franker approach to European questions, and a definite policy directed to the encouragement of international solutions.

M. Painlevé, discussing the attitude of the new men towards Germany, says the election returns express the pacific aspirations of the country.

There will be no just and lasting peace, he says, until, on the one hand, the ruins left by the war are repaired, and, on the other, until a wide and generous conception is adopted of material and moral possibilities. Not only must the material traces of the war be obliterated, but a way must be opened to a loyal co-operation in which its moral traces must disappear.

Such a policy, however, he adds, cannot be one-sided, and Germany must reciprocate French good-will. Without this no peaceful future can be looked for in Europe or the world.

The organs of the Left continue to call to-day for the resignation of the President of the Republic.

M. Millerand is the creator of the Bloc National, and is charged with having striven to influence the country before the election in its favour. This is largely based on the message addressed by him at the end of March to a newspaper here.

"France," he said, "cannot evacuate the Ruhr without the total payment of reparations. If the country should show itself hostile to the continuation of the policy, the President of the Republic would immediately, in what concerns him, draw from the fact the consequences which he might judge appropriate."

The Œuvre invites him to carry out the promise and to leave the Elysée, and the Quotidien reprints the message in full in heavy type, and characterises it as "insolent."

FRANCE WANTS PEACE.

THE MORAL OF THE ELECTIONS.

By ROBERT DE JOUVENAL.

(Political Director of the "Œuvre," and one of the ablest and most incisive Writers in French public life.)

PARIS, Tuesday.

It would be vain to pretend that the victory of the Left has not exceeded the hopes of even the most optimistic Radicals and Socialists. Certainly they expected a change in public opinion, but not such an overwhelming change as has occurred. Why have the French electors veered round so sharply? There is sufficient explanation in a re-reading of the programme upon which the Radicals and Socialists were able to arrive at an agreement without renouncing their own particular doctrines. This programme is summed up in one word: "Peace."

"Our programme," said M. Briand in his famous speech at Carcassonne, "is that we want peace." In the supreme appeal that he made to the electors in the Œuvre, M. Edouard Herriot declared: "The bloc of the Left stands for peace."

It is this great world peace that has resounded in the far-off corners of the country, and has determined the old French provinces and the peasants to vote for the Socialists, who had been, and in vain, labelled as extremists and as the enemies of property. Lord Robert Cecil said in my presence one day: "I believe in the pacifism of the French; but we are anxious, we English, when we hear them make too much noise with their weapons, and we listen uneasily to the noise of guns upon the roads."

It is this same feeling that has influenced the votes of Frenchmen. Certainly, they did not think that the Poincaré Ministry would play for war, or even let it break out, but they were anxious at seeing a number of militarists lending it their support. They not only wanted peace, they wanted the customs of peace.

Compare the German elections of May 4th, that brought to the Reichstag the Ludendorffs and the Von Tirpitzes, with the French elections that have turned out from the Palais Bourbon even such valuable men as General de Castelnau and Andre Lefevre, because their pacifism appeared, wrongly or rightly, suspect to some people. From these very facts you will draw the moral of our elections, and you will find in them the true heart of France.

CUMANN NA nGAEDHEAL.

ATTITUDE TO BOUNDARY PROBLEM.

A meeting of the Ard-Chomhairle of Cumann na nGaedheal was held yesterday at 5 Parnell square, Dublin. Dr. Eoin McNeill presided, and among those present were:—P. Daly, Balbriggan; M. Davis, Ballina; M. J. Canon McHugh, P.P., Ballyhaunis; R. Tully, Bantry; M. Nally, T.D., South Mayo; Dr. Madden, North Mayo; Sean O Muirgheasa, Clonmel; General Mulcahy; Sean S. Collins, South Mayo; J. A. O'Connell; S. J. Malone; Councillor McIntyre, Dublin N.; Seamas O Dolain, T.D.; Mairtin O Connallain; Michael OhEochaic; J. Dennehy, Listowel; Senator George Nesbitt; Sean Priomhdhail; Mrs. O'Shea-Leamy; T. P. McKenna; Batt O'Connor, T.D.; Proinsias MacAongusa; Senator Mrs. Wyse Power; Padraig O Maille; President Cosgrave; E. Blythe; P. McGilligan; A. Lavin, T.D.; K. O'Higgins; George Wolfe; P. O'Duffy; James Leddin; Fionan Lynch; Desmond Fitzgerald; William Sears; F. Bulfin; P. J. Egan, T.D.; Mrs. Collins O'Driscoll; P. Hogan, T.D.; W. Magennis, T.D.; P. S. Doyle, T.D.

A resolution was adopted urging active co-operation on the part of the T.D.'s with the Constituency and Branch Committees, and providing that arrangements be made to keep these bodies fully informed on matters of legislation.

Resolutions were adopted congratulating the Government on the strong line adopted in regard to the Boundary question, and assuring them that the organisation was solidly behind them and welcoming the measures of protection that had been initiated in the recent Budget.

With regard to the local elections, the Ard-Chomhairle strongly endorsed the policy agreed upon at a previous meeting—i.e., that the issue at these elections should be one of good administration rather than of politics. The organisation would nominate a number of candidates chosen for their ability and interest in public work, and would support the candidature of nominees of other elements who promised to work the public boards for the benefit of the people in co-operation with the elected Government of the country. The issue in these elections should not be confused with the issue in Parliamentary elections.

A statement from a delegate about the disappointment felt in rural areas that no division of grass lands under the Land Act had yet taken place drew from Mr. Hogan a detailed explanation of the work of the Land Commission. Public departments, he said, could not proceed with the same freedom and rapidity as obtained in an ordinary deal between landlord and tenant. The operations of the Land Act were automatic where accurate information was available on the strength of which these operations could take place.

Of unpaid tenants alone there were 150,000, and before the Act could operate absolutely accurate information had to be obtained of all the particulars required for filling the documents which were essential for each transaction. It was not easy to get this information. The Judicial Commission alone had tried 3,000 cases of disputed rentals, and each of these cases governed, perhaps, ten others.

The matter of dealing with untenanted land involved necessarily an accurate survey of all untenanted land in the country and the gathering of full details relative to congests, principally in the West. This work was well advanced, and the actual dividing of the lands will take place within about six months.

Lands which had been in charge of the Congested Districts Board would be dealt with and divided immediately, but the vast preliminary work was now nearly done, and nothing that could expedite the work had been neglected. The delays associated with land purchase under the British Government would not be repeated under the Free State régime.

INCREASING INSANITY.

FEMALE PATIENTS BECOMING MORE NUMEROUS.

Dr. Hewson reported to the last meeting of the Clonmel Mental Hospital Committee that the number of inmates in the institution was increasing, especially on the female side of the house, where the wards were so full that he had to get additional bedding.

Many patients, he said, were kept at home too long, and this made treatment difficult on admission to the home. Some were sent in a dying condition. Four such patients had died recently.

GERMANY NOT EXULTING.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

Though in Government circles and in the public Press satisfaction is expressed at M. Poincaré's defeat, no strident cries of exultation over the downfall of their greatest enemy are heard. If anything the result of the French elections is likely to encourage the Moderate Parties to persevere in a policy of fulfilment of the Reparations obligations. Even the Junkers, who take careful note of the trend of public opinion in Germany, do not indulge in noisy demonstrations of delight.

FATAL SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

Death from shock and hemorrhage, caused by gun-shot wounds, was the verdict of the Coroner's jury at Passage, Co. Waterford, at the inquest on the body of Thomas Moran, formerly a steeplechase jockey. The evidence showed that while a number of persons were shooting cormorants from a boat at the entrance to Waterford Harbour, Mr. Moran, who was one of the party, was accidentally wounded in the leg, and died soon afterwards. One witness said that Mr. Moran's little son told him that when he took up the gun it went off.

OPPRESSIVE LOAD OF TAXATION.

FREE STATE MOTORISTS' BURDEN.

PROTEST MEETING IN DUBLIN.

Sir James C. Percy presided over a large attendance of motorists at the Mansion House, Dublin, yesterday afternoon, at which a strong protest was made against the excessive taxation of motorists in the Irish Free State.

Opening the proceedings the Chairman said that they were not assembled in any spirit of antagonism to the Government, but, in view of the fact that motorists in the Free State were the most highly taxed people in the whole world, something had to be done. They wanted the return of the petrol tax and the abolition of the horse-power tax.

Mr. Blythe had said that he hoped to get £324,000 from new duties, and of that sum £256,000 was to come from motorists. That meant that motorists, in addition to paying their share of the ordinary taxes, had to pay four-fifths of the new sum. Also, motors were not luxuries in Southern Ireland, because 60 per cent. of all the cars in use were being used for business purposes.

Major Bryan Cooper, T.D., proposed the following resolutions:—

(1)—That this meeting of Irish motorists expresses profound disappointment at the failure of the Government to act on the report of the Fiscal Committee, recommending the abolition of the import duties on motor parts; and protests strongly against the action of the Government in increasing and extending these duties, notwithstanding the careful judgment of its own Committee of Experts.

(2)—That the decision to impose import duties on commercial vehicles, and the replacement parts for such vehicles, forcing upon the user the task of obtaining a refund, will hamper and restrict to a grave extent the development of road transport, and prove a constant source of worry to numbers of general traders and other business people throughout the country.

(3)—That since motor cars are indispensable to the equipment of an efficient nation, this meeting considers that the import duties are unreasonably high, and should be reduced from 33 1-3 per cent. and 22 1-9 per cent., to 20 per cent. and 10 per cent., respectively.

(4)—That, as a means of collecting revenue for the improvement of the roads, the h.p. tax is utterly unjust, unsuited to the interests of Ireland, and demands immediate adjustment. That we request the establishment of a Government Committee to investigate the practicability of a tax on spirit, or other means of obtaining revenue from vehicle owners, on the principle of payment according to use.

"NO JUSTIFICATION."

Major Cooper said that some years ago he was a motorist, but owing to the harassing conditions in Ireland he had given up motoring entirely. There was, he believed, no justification for the present heavy taxation of motorists, but at the same time he did not think there was any chance of relief for some time. Some of the taxes were of a pettifogging character and a hindrance to the progress of civilisation. (Applause.)

Major Myles, T.D., in seconding, said that he hoped the Minister for Finance would amend the tax, which hit motorists so severely and, because of its peculiar anomalies, hurt those who lived south of the border. The trouble about spare parts was almost intolerable and would lead to smuggling.

Mr. F. M. Summerfield, in supporting the resolutions, said that the intolerable burden of taxation was killing motoring in Ireland. He knew all that was to be known about the roads of Ireland, and he could assure the Minister for Finance that there was neither pleasure nor luxury in negotiating them.

Mr. R. H. Tilson, of the Southern Motorists' Association and a member of the Roads Advisory Committee, said that motorists should protest against the iniquities of the taxation they had to bear, and also do everything possible to create a lively public opinion on the subject. He was in favour of broadening the basis of taxation, and he assured the meeting that Cork would join with Dublin in any movement for the alleviation of the present burden on motorists.

Dr. P. J. Keogh said that the motor car was an essential part of a medical man's outfit and might be the means of saving many lives in a year.

Mr. Charles O'Connor, of the Royal Automobile Club; Dr. J. O'Conor Donelan, Mr. C. McKane, Mr. John P. McCabe, Chairman of the Blackrock Urban Council, and Mr. William Ireland, Chairman of the Rathmines and Rathgar Urban District Council, having spoken,

The resolutions were put and carried unanimously.

A committee comprising Sir James C. Percy, Messrs. Tilson, McKane, Ashenhurst, Huet and Summerfield was appointed to approach the Government on the subject discussed by the meeting.

"NOTHING TO ADD."

LORD LONDONDERRY AND THE BOUNDARY.

In the Northern Senate yesterday, Senator Woods said that since they last met the discussion upon the Boundary Conference had broken down, but they ought not to depart without expressing their satisfaction at the way in which Sir James Craig and his colleagues had looked after their interests.

He was fully satisfied with the conduct of the Prime Minister and his colleagues upon this particular question. He rose principally to congratulate the House in having such a leader as Lord Londonderry, who went to London to attend the Conference a few days after he had sustained a serious accident.

Lord Londonderry said that with reference to the boundary he did not feel that he could usefully add anything to the statement which the Prime Minister had made on more than one occasion. If there was any doubt in the minds of the people of the Six Counties as to the attitude of the Government on the boundary question, no stone should be left unturned to dispel that doubt. He did not believe that any doubt existed. They had had very full statements from the Prime Minister, Sir James Craig, which had stated the case and which he fully accepted.

ARTICLE FIVE.

QUESTION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Sir William Davison asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons yesterday, if he could state what is the estimated sum payable by the Irish Free State towards the service of the public debt of the United Kingdom and of war pensions, as provided by Article 5 of the Treaty, and what payments have actually been made; and what is the total amount payable, and actually paid, to date by the Government of Northern Ireland as its contribution to the Imperial revenue under the Act of 1920.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Colonial Secretary, who replied, said that under Article 5 of the Treaty the amount of the liability to be assumed by the Irish Free State for debt and war pensions is to be determined by agreement, or, in default of agreement, by arbitration. No sum has yet been determined in accordance with this article. In reply to the last part of the question, he would refer the hon. member to the answer given to the hon. member for Fermanagh and Tyrone on the 6th inst.

THREE POLICEMEN KILLED.

HYDERABAD, SIND, Tuesday.

The triple murder of an inspector, sub-inspector, and constable of the police is reported from the Larkana district. The three were conducting an inquiry against a head constable. While they were asleep in a bungalow this head constable attacked the party with a rifle firing nine shots and killing the constable outright. The inspector and sub-inspector succumbed to their injuries.—(Reuter.)

SALVAGING OF DESERTED STEAMER.

In the Admiralty Court, Belfast, yesterday, in the action by the owners, master and crew of the ss. Mango, of Newry, against the owners of the ss. Spurnpoint, of Cardiff, in respect of services rendered by the salvaging of the Spurnpoint while deserted and adrift in the Irish Channel, counsel for the plaintiffs applied to have a consent made a rule of Court. The defendants had agreed to pay £1,750 and costs. The Lord Chief Justice made the order sought.

SUN YAT SEN.

FAMOUS CHINAMAN DYING.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
From Our Own Correspondent.

SHANGHAI, Tuesday.

Sun Yat Sen, styled the President of South China, is reported to be in extremis. He is suffering from a cerebral affection. He has been unconscious for a considerable time. Born in Honolulu, Dr. Sun Yat Sen was a Christian. He studied medicine under Sir James Cantlie at Hong Kong, and was one of the biggest figures in the Young China movement.

Following the failure of the plan to seize Canton, Sun Yat Sen, with a price of £5,000 on his head, came to England in 1896. In Portland place, seeing two fellow-countrymen signing to him to enter a house, he did so, and found himself a prisoner in the Chinese Embassy. He dropped a note from the window to Sir James Cantlie, which resulted in his release. He returned to China, and organised the revolt which led to the overthrow of the Chinese dynasty.

REPORTED DEATH.

A Reuter's telegram from Hong Kong on Tuesday states:—It has been known for some time that Dr. Sun Yat Sen has not been in the best of health, and the vernacular newspapers now state that he was suffering from fever, and possibly cerebro-spinal fever. Dr. Sun's son, Dr. Sun Fo, has been in constant attendance at the bedside of his father, who it is generally acknowledged in authoritative quarters has been seriously ill. The report of his death, however, cannot be verified at present. In the circumstances this is not surprising, as the Southerners would naturally do their utmost to maintain the utmost secrecy, seeing that the news of Dr. Sun's death would very probably lead to chaos in Canton.

THE SPRING SHOW.

The Royal Dublin Society's Spring Show opens to-day. The programme and a review of the exhibits will be found on Page 4.

BRITISH LABOUR TROUBLES.

THREE DISPUTES AWAITING SETTLEMENT

By Our Labour Correspondent.

LONDON, Tuesday.

There were tentative discussions to-day between the parties concerned in the mining, building, and coal trimmers' disputes. A joint meeting of the negotiating committees of the Miners' Federation and the colliery-owners created a more hopeful state of feeling. Notwithstanding recent truculent utterances of Mr. Cook, the new secretary of the Federation, the balance of opinion among the leaders is in favour of getting the best possible settlement by negotiation at the moment, and prosecuting more vigorously an educational campaign, in support of the policy of nationalisation, as the most effective means of bringing about unification.

To-day's discussion, carried on in this spirit, resulted in a decision to appoint a joint sub-committee, which is to meet to-morrow to discuss the details of a basis of settlement. The report of the committee will be considered by the full committees, and, if a provisional agreement is arrived at, it will be submitted to a delegate conference of the men, and to the general body of the owners for ratification.

BUILDING TRADE.

The issue of peace or war in the building trade is still in the balance. The executives of the Unions met yesterday, and, after a long discussion, authorised the Negotiation Committee to meet the employers again to-morrow. The executive will reassemble next Thursday, when it is likely that a definite decision will be taken. So far the employers firmly decline to offer more than an increase of a half-penny an hour in wages, but they have made proposals for the improvement of working conditions.

A building trade dispute has arisen at Liverpool, where some time ago the operatives gained a local rate of 1s. 9d. an hour, which is 1½d. in excess of the national rate. The dispute is connected with a declared intention to retain this 1s. 9d., and there is a suggestion that a strike may be the outcome.

COAL TRIMMERS.

The Ministry of Labour is making a strenuous effort to prevent the national strike of coal trimmers, which has been called for to-morrow. It was announced to-day that, in response to an invitation, representatives of the Leith employers will reach London to-morrow morning for an interview with the Minister. The Joint Sub-Committees of the unions will meet later in the day, but it was stated this evening that so far as the Transport Workers' Federation was concerned nothing had happened up to that time to justify the officials in calling off the strike. The cause of the threat to strike is the refusal of the Leith employers to dismiss twenty-one workers who were taken on during a recent stoppage, and who were promised permanent employment. These men have refused an offer of £800—to be paid jointly by the employers and the unions—to give up their jobs. Mr. Brett, the Secretary of the Shipping Federation, declared to-day that it would be a monstrous thing if the little quarrel at Leith were made the pretext for stopping half the trade of the country.

BELFAST BROADCASTING STATION

TO BE READY IN JULY.

Replying to Mr. McGuffin, in the Northern House of Commons yesterday, Mr. McKeown said that, under an agreement entered into between the Postmaster-General and the British Broadcasting Company, the latter secured the sole right of establishing wireless broadcasting stations in Great Britain and Northern Ireland. In December last the Postmaster-General informed the Ministry of Commerce that he had received an application from the company for permission to establish a broadcasting station in Belfast, and inquired whether the Government of Northern Ireland would desire to impose on such permission any special conditions. After consultation with the Ministry of Home Affairs, the Ministry of Commerce replied, specifying certain conditions which, in the opinion of the Government of Northern Ireland, should be attached to the Postmaster-General's permission.

It is understood that the company has been able to proceed with the erection of the station, subject to those conditions, and while I am unable to make any definite pronouncement on the point I am informed that it is expected that the station will be completed and ready for operation by the middle of July next.

Replying to Mr. McGuffin, Mr. McKeown said that one of the conditions imposed was the power to discontinue the broadcasting at any time, if necessary, in the public interest.

EXPORTATION OF ANIMALS.

FOOD AND WATER ORDER, 1924.

Last night's Dublin Gazette contains an Order, signed by Mr. F. J. Meyrick, Secretary, Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, and Mr. P. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, under the Agriculture and Technical Instruction (Ireland) Act, 1899, and the Diseases of Animals Acts, 1894 to 1914, requiring food and water to be provided for all animals during detention. The Order revokes Article 4 of the Exportation of Animals (Irish Free State) Order of 1923, and substitutes for it the following provision:—

"The owner or occupier of each approved place of inspection shall supply all animals undergoing detention in such place of inspection with a proper and sufficient quantity of suitable food and water, and shall provide and keep provided in the place of inspection such racks, troughs, or other receptacles as the Department consider necessary for ensuring the proper feeding and watering of each animal undergoing detention."

It is also ordered that "If an animal remains without food or water in contravention of the foregoing provisions of this Order, the owner or the occupier of the place of inspection shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Diseases of Animals Act, 1894, and it shall lie on him, when charged, to prove the proper and sufficient supply of food and water."

"An Inspector of the Department may detain any animal in a place of inspection until he is satisfied that the animal has received food and water in accordance with this Order."

The Order will come into operation on the 1st day of September, 1924, and may be cited as the Exportation of Animals (Food and Water) Order of 1924. It is to be read with the Exportation of Animals (Irish Free State) Order, 1923.

OUTBREAK AMONG PIGS.

Two cases of foot-and-mouth disease among pigs were discovered yesterday in Newcastle. A large number of animals were involved.

DERRY STRIKES.

ELECTRICAL STATION STILL WORKING.

Up to yesterday afternoon there had been no new development in connection with the Derry Municipal employés' strike, and the men at the Electrical Station were still at work.

The only incident connected with the builders' strike yesterday was an attempt by a picket to prevent the delivery from a local firm of a load of cement to a contractor for his own use.

The police were notified, and an escort was provided for the driver, who then delivered the cement.

THE BIG NOISES.

HUGE DUMPS TO BE EXPLODED.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Tuesday.

The three big noises which the French Institute of Physics and the French Ministry of War are to make by exploding three dumps, each of ten tons of melinite, in connection with the investigation of the propagation of sound and its relation to meteorological conditions, will take place next Thursday, at 7.30 p.m. (summer time); Friday, May 23, at 8 p.m. (summer time); Sunday, May 25, at 9 p.m. (summer time).

The sound, if heard in England, might be expected 20 or 30 minutes later.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

McKENNA DUTIES.

MOTION OF CENSURE REJECTED.

MAJORITY OF 65 FOR GOVERNMENT.

From Our Parliamentary Correspondent.

WESTMINSTER, Tuesday.

The fight over the McKenna duties raged hotly for a time in the House of Commons to-day, and both Mr. Baldwin, who led the attack, and Mr. Snowden, who did his best to repel it, had the encouragement which a crowded House is supposed to give.

The Leader of the Opposition submitted a motion deprecating the removal of the McKenna duties at a time when unemployment was so prevalent. He entirely repudiated the idea that this was intended as a vote of censure, but the Government had previously announced that they regarded it as such, and the debate proceeded on those lines.

At the outset Mr. Baldwin indulged in a good deal of chaff at the Chancellor's expense.

Mr. Snowden had been described as a man with first-class brains, but when a first-class brain did something stupid, the stupidity of that brain was colossal. Turning to the professions of the Labour Party that they were out to solve the problem of unemployment, Mr. Baldwin said that the question that they naturally had to consider was whether the abolition of these import duties was calculated to relieve unemployment. Could anyone doubt the answer? Markets would be lost by the removal of these duties, and it was very doubtful whether, when once lost, we should ever be able to regain them.

He invited the Chancellor of the Exchequer to tell the House his real reason for the steps he was proposing to take. He was aware of the old argument that Free Trade would result in people having more to spend, and the consequent greater ability to buy goods; but though this might be feasible in theory, it seldom worked out in practice. If English production of motor cars fell the cost would go up, and the moment that happened the foreign price would go up, keeping just below the English price. Therefore, the only result in twelve months' time would be more unemployment.

A CHALLENGE.

He wondered whether the Chancellor had consulted the bankers as to the financial position of the motor trade, and had he completely closed his mind to the possibilities of an impartial inquiry. If you, continued Mr. Baldwin, will prove that what you are doing is going to increase employment in this country, we will vote with you to-night. He suggested that the Government would do well to think twice before they took the plunge. Convinced, as he was, that the Government were contemplating one of the stupidiest things possible, he would vote for the resolution with more confidence and a better heart than he had ever voted before.

The Chancellor rose to make his reply, but Mr. Pringle, who has assumed the clock and the hat and the seat of Sir Frederick Banbury (as he was before his translation to the Upper House), intervened on a point of order. His submission was that, as the resolution was a direct negative to that passed by the House last night on the subject of these duties, it was out of order, unless it could be construed as a vote of censure.

The House was rather staggered at even the remote possibility of the debate being thus summarily brought to an end on a technical point, but the Speaker relieved members' minds by disallowing the objection. Whilst declining to define what was, or was not, a vote of censure, he ruled that the resolution was strictly in order.

THE CHANCELLOR'S CASE.

Mr. Snowden proceeded to expound, amid the cheers of his own supporters and the cordial agreement of the Free Trade Liberals, the reasons which had led him to propose the removal of the duties.

removal of the duties. He confessed that he had been rather surprised at the mildness of the attack, having in mind the almost unprecedented violence of the campaign which had been raging in the newspapers during the past few weeks. Members of the Opposition had been down to the House in full war paint, and shouting war whoops, but the Commander-in-Chief's speech was, after all, a milk-and-water production. He welcomed the rather belated interest which members opposite had taken in the question of unemployment.

There were angry Conservative protests and cries of "Withdraw" at this remark, but they were advised by Mr. Kirkwood to take their gruelling.

Mr. Baldwin, said the Chancellor, has recently fought an election on the issue of Protection, which was to be not a mere alleviation of, but a cure for, unemployment. In all his political experience he knew of nothing more mean and dishonourable than for the party opposite to try to keep on these duties as part of a fiscal controversy. The duties were only imposed as a war-time measure, and he considered that they were justified in assuming that Mr. Baldwin was perfectly ready to repeal them as the price of securing the help of Mr. McKenna in his Government.

This agitation against the repeal of the duties was being organised, not by the workers, but by the employers. Some of the statements made in support of the agitation were perfectly outrageous, particularly in regard to the number of work-people which it was said would be thrown out of employment. It was all a piece of colossal humbug. It was quite true that the duties, since they were imposed, had produced a revenue of about 19 millions, but that they could afford to do without, and they would be honouring the pledge given when the taxes were first imposed.

The Government would stand or fall by their decision; but they would not fall. There were a sufficient number of men of honour in that House who would not violate their election pledges.

AN "IMMORAL BARGAIN."

Colonel Howard Bury commented on what he described as the immoral bargain which had been concluded between the Government and the Liberals, in order that the Labour Party might be maintained in office.

Captain Wedgwood Benn considered that the best argument against the McKenna duties was to be found in the fact that at the general election they had been condemned by the electors in the proportion of eight to five.

One member of the Labour Party who favoured the retention of the duties was Mr. Purcell, but as he represents Coventry, the seat of one of the industries chiefly affected, he may, perhaps, be forgiven for thinking that this was one of the occasions where the workers threatened with unemployment should be given first consideration.

Major-General Seely on this matter differed from many of his colleagues on the Liberal benches. In the circumstances he believed that the sudden abolition of the duties would mean the end of Free Trade, and probably of Liberalism, and he appealed to the Chancellor of the Exchequer at least to consider the advisability of proceeding by gradual steps.

Mr. Pringle viewed with complacency the "evidently impending defection" of Major-General Seely, doubting not that the Liberal Party would still survive.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain concluded the debate for the Opposition. To the straight question of whether the Conservative Party associated the motion with a general tariff, he replied, with equal straightforwardness, that they did not. It was true that when the McKenna duties were imposed it was never contemplated that they should be permanent, but since then they had experience to guide them. The duties had helped manufacturers by giving them a larger market, and consequently cheaper production. The Chancellor was apparently counting upon a short life and a merry one, but there was a possibility of his finding himself still in office next year and in need of the revenue which these duties produced.

Mr. Graham's parting shot at the Opposition was that the real case which the Labour Party had to meet was a campaign of misrepresentation and distortion.

The division was taken at 11 o'clock, when the motion was defeated by 317 votes to 252. The division was the largest of the session, and it took a quarter of an hour to collate the figures and announce the result. Cheers from the Government benches hailed the announcement, but they were not very loud or prolonged.

STRIKE OF DUBLIN GAS WORKERS.

CAUSE OF THE DISPUTE.

SUPPLIES MAY BE CUT OFF TO-DAY.

As the result of a strike of gas workers, which took place at 10 o'clock last night, Dublin may be entirely without gas at noon to-day. Already the district supplies have failed; and last night, from the hour of 10, Blackrock, Dalkey, Killiney, Bray, and Kingstown were virtually in darkness.

It was announced in the Dail yesterday that a Court of Inquiry had been appointed to investigate, and report on, the circumstances of the dispute, and the Minister for Industry and Commerce appealed to the parties to the dispute to defer action until the investigation had been completed.

Up till 9 o'clock last night, however, no official notification of the Minister's decision had been received by the gas workers' organisation—the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union—and the Union decided to call the men out on strike at the hour previously agreed upon. Consideration of the dispute was put off, pending the receipt of a communication from the Government, and the men will probably meet again to-day.

The Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company, which employs all gas workers in the city, has made no statement regarding the dispute, beyond announcing that the gas supply will be cut off completely as from noon to-day.

The public will realise that a very grave situation has arisen, and that much inconvenience to all, and, perhaps, a serious hampering of industry may take place. The Secretary of the Gas Company declined absolutely to discuss the matter when an Irish Times representative called at the company's office yesterday.

An official of the Transport Union stated that trouble had been brewing at the gas works ever since the beginning of this year. The workers had "a whole host of grievances," but the dispute really arose out of "the refusal of the company to promote any member of the Union to a staff position unless he resigned membership of the Union at the dictation of the company."

"You must understand," said the Union official, "that the dispute has nothing whatever to do with wages or working conditions, but is the result of an attempt on the part of the employers to interfere with the liberty of the subject."

INDUSTRIES MAY BE AFFECTED.

Nine hundred workers are on strike, but the stoppage of work at the gas works may yet affect many industries which use gas as a motive power for manufacturing purposes. According to an official of the Transport Workers' Union, the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company manufacture about six million cubic feet of gas per day, and as the daily consumption is about four million cubic feet, it will be seen that the supply will not last longer than to-day.

The Union official pointed out that they were opposed, first and foremost, to the company's insistence that an employé should leave the Union because he had been promoted from clerk to collector of quarterly accounts. This attempt, he said, to coerce an employé, could not be tolerated by the union. The employé mentioned had been promoted in July of last year, but it was not until January that he was put on the monthly payment system, and he was told that he was to have the increase of wages to which he was entitled. The company informed him that the increase would date from his promotion, and he was handed a cheque for £21, for a month's work; but he was then told that he was required to sever his connection with the Transport Union. He refused to do so, and the company insisted upon his either leaving the union or leaving his position and taking up his old duties. He still declined, and the cheque was taken from him, and he was given another cheque for £13 10s. 0d., representing his wages at the old rate.

On April 22 the clerical staff gave notice to withdraw their services after one week, but a conference at the Ministry of Transport intervened, and the notices were withdrawn. Both parties met at the Ministry, but after a three hours' conference no agreement was reached. The union met afterwards, and it was decided to call out the whole staff. On Monday evening the representatives of the union were summoned to the Ministry of Commerce, and a further conference was held, which again lasted three hours, and a suggestion was made by the Ministry that a Court of Inquiry should be set up, but that the decision of the Court should not be final. This was not agreed to. The union complained of the employers breaking away from several agreements made when a dispute about wages was settled in last December.

STATEMENT IN THE DAIL.

SEEKING A SETTLEMENT.

In the Dail yesterday, in answer to a question by Mr. P. S. Doyle, Mr. McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that his Ministry had been endeavouring for some time to effect a settlement of differences which had arisen between the Dublin Gas Company and the Irish Transport Union. He regretted to say that these efforts had not succeeded. In these circumstances, and having regard particularly to the serious inconvenience and dislocation that a stoppage of the gas supply would involve, not only to private consumers, but to a large number of industrial concerns, he had decided to exercise his powers under the Industrial Courts Act, 1919, to appoint Mr. Fred Allen as a Court of Inquiry to investigate, and report on, the circumstances of the dispute.

He would urge the parties to exhaust every rational means of settlement before a stoppage of work that would seriously affect the industries and general life of the city was allowed to take place, and he hoped that the parties would defer any such action, to enable the Court of Inquiry thoroughly to investigate the matter, and to formulate suggestions for a settlement.

ON THE COAST.

The first effect of the gas workers' action began to be evident in the coast townships a few minutes after ten o'clock last night. The light died down gradually. There were still a few jets flickering feebly, as long as an hour after the gas was turned off in Dublin, though gas stoves had been almost immediately rendered useless.

On public lighting the strike had little effect. Most of the townships only light an odd street lamp in the summer time, while Killiney and Bray are not dependent on gas. In Bray there is a municipal electric light system, while at Killiney an excellent service of oil lamps is used for street lighting. The feature of the night was the dimness of the windows of private dwellings, and the semi-darkness of these public-houses which remained open. The most noticeable effect was at the railway stations. Fortunately the signal lamps along the line are lighted with oil, but the platform and office gas apparatus were soon useless. Storm oil lanterns, guards' lamps and candles were distributed at convenient points on the platforms and offices, and the public and the company's servants made the best of such dim light as these gave.

The company's announcement concerning the strike appears on page 6.

OBITUARY.

MR. CHARLES HENRY HONE.

The death took place, suddenly, yesterday of Mr. Charles Henry Hone, at his residence, Tighlorcain Hall, Stillorgan, Co. Dublin. Youngest son of the late Mr. Joseph Hone, of Ashton Park, Monkstown, Co. Dublin, Mr. Hone was a gentleman of independent means, and his favourite hobby was the collection of stamps. He was a member of the Committee of the Irish Philatelic Club, and Mr. Frederick W. Meredith, author of a book on Old Irish Postage Stamps and Franks, pays a tribute to his helpful interest, and acknowledges his presentation of specimens of stamps. The funeral will be private.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE McKENNA DUTIES.

LAST NIGHT'S DEBATE.

In a leading article upon last night's Parliamentary debate on the McKenna duties, The Times observes:—The marked inferiority of Mr. Snowden's speech of last night to his Budget speech is a proof of Mr. Baldwin's wisdom in choosing the simple, practical side of the question as the ground for his argument. He spoke with humour, and with so much moderation that Mr. Snowden described his speech as a milk and watery production; but he pressed the plain facts home. Production and employment have increased, and, until the decision of the Government, were increasing; ought they to be diminished, as the experts agree that they must be diminished, when that decision comes into force? Prices have been reduced, and on the same authority the reduction would continue were it not for this decision. The export trade, which is all important in order to enable the industry to recover and retain the position it held in the Dominions and the Colonies before the war, has developed rapidly within the last couple of years—so rapidly that last year it was two and a half times greater than it was in 1922. All this growth, actual and prospective, means growing employment, and growing employment at a time when almost all industries, including the engineering industry, of which the motor trade is a branch, are suffering severely from unemployment.

Mass production, we are told, is the best hope—many say the only hope—of a large part of this trade, and it is manifest, as Mr Baldwin said, that, in a protected world, mass production under Free Trade is impossible. The Government will lose revenue by the repeal of the duties. What will they gain, or rather what will the country gain by it? What, above all, will the men now engaged in the protected industries and their families gain by it? Mr. Baldwin spoke with feeling of their prospects. Mr. Snowden comforts them with prophecy and with the assurance that if they are thrown out of good work and good wages, somebody else somewhere will get a job on some other sort of goods. Mr. Baldwin insists upon the colossal stupidity of this decision of the first-class brains. A good many plain men will be disposed to agree with him.

IRISH BOUNDARY.

LORD DUNRAVEN'S VIEW.

The Times prints a long letter from Lord Dunraven, written from 22 Norfolk street, Park lane, London, W., on the subject of the Irish boundary. Extracts are appended:—

The people in Northern Ireland think they can repudiate the Act of 1922 on the ground that they were not parties to it, and Sir James Craig asserts that it constitutes a violation of a distinct understanding given by the British Government that the Act of 1920 was to be a final settlement. Legally, no such claim can stand. In 1922 the Northern Parliament was functioning within its limits. It did not represent an independent State, and could not as such take part in making the Treaty, being a purely subordinate State. The Northern Parliament is legally bound to the Treaty, with or without its consent. Morally, something may be said for such a contention, but Sir James Craig must realise that there can be no finality in Acts of Parliament. More justification may be found for the plea that Southern Ireland can ignore the Act of 1920, on the ground that it was not consulted in the matter. The obnoxious principle of partition was opposed by Nationalists, and, indeed, by the great majority of Irishmen of all parties, and was accepted by those who did accept it as a temporary measure of expediency. So far as I am personally concerned, I did all I could to demonstrate the impossibility of carving out a slice of Ireland on lines following race or religion, and consequently of the extreme unwisdom of attempting to do so. If partition had to be, the ancient lines of provinces should, I argued, have been followed. I venture to think that if the Province of Ulster had constituted the Norther area, the question of boundaries would have settled itself by now.

I very strongly deprecate the proposal that the British Government should instruct the Lord Lieutenant of Northern Ireland to appoint the Northern representative on the Boundary Commission, especially as his Prime Minister has refused to do so. The Lord Lieutenant of Northern Ireland is not in the position of the Governor of a Crown Colony, who exercises the dual function of the King's representative and of the active chief of the Executive. In Northern Ireland the Lord Lieutenant is purely the King's representative, and to order him to do what his Ministers have refused to do would be to drag the Crown into the controversy, which would be little short of a calamity. I take it that Ulster stands upon the words in Article 12, "economical and geographical conditions," and argues that the clause only contemplates a small rectification of boundary. The Free State, on the other hand, relies upon the words, "in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants," and believes that to carry out the Treaty considerable areas must be transferred to them. Which is right?

What is the meaning of the phrase that the boundary is to be settled "in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants, so far as may be compatible with economic and geographic conditions?" The Government cannot, as some people have suggested, instruct the Commissioners beforehand as to what their decision as to the correct interpretation of the phrase is to be. There is one way, and one way only, of ascertaining the meaning of an Act of Parliament. It is useless to bandy words. What A said to B or whether C misunderstood D does not matter. To discover the meaning to be attached to Article 12 the Commission, under a strong, impartial chairman, should be set up in order to ascertain their decision on the point. But that does not deprive the parties of their inherent right to appeal to the Courts on a question of law. If in the opinion of the Southern or Northern Government the Commissioners have misinterpreted the Act, they can appeal to the High Court in the form of an application to quash the findings of the Commissioners on the grounds that they have acted contrary to the jurisdiction given them by statute. We should thus know, not what the Act was intended to mean, or what we should like it to mean, but what it does mean, and that would be a step forward.

BUNGALOW TRAGEDY.

NO FURTHER ARRESTS LIKELY

The Eastbourne and East Sussex detectives are still actively engaged on inquiries concerning the Pevensey bungalow discovery. They have collected a large amount of information, much of which it is believed will be of the greatest value in piecing together the story of the tragedy. Some of the bones found near the bungalow prove to be animal and not human. The police have also, it is learned, definitely ruled out any connection between the bungalow tragedy and the discovery of parts of a baby's body at Eastbourne and Norman's Bay.

It is understood that there is not likely to be any further arrest in connection with the affair. The police have succeeded in tracing the purchases of anthracite coal which was found at the bungalow, but the mystery of why this class of coal was ordered for an ordinary stove remains unsolved.

FOIRE DE PARIS.

A GIGANTIC DISPLAY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Tuesday.

Over five thousand separate exhibits are on view at the Sixteenth Foire de Paris, or Paris Fair, opened this week in the Champs de Mars.

The Fair is a gigantic display of the industrial resources of France. The display of French and Colonial manufacturers, inventions, and modern industrial appliances covers approximately 175,000 square metres. The Champs de Mars has been arranged into streets and avenues, and huge frame galleries house the greater part of the exposition, while the streets are lined with smaller shops, where almost every article which the French manufacture has found a place. The Fair will last several weeks.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

GENERAL SYNOD.

PRIMATE ON BOUNDARY PROBLEM.

THE WAY TO PEACE.

THE ANGLO-CATHOLIC MOVEMENT.

The General Synod of the Church of Ireland met yesterday in the Synod Hall, Christ Church place, Dublin.

The Primate presided, and nominated Lord Glenavy as his Assessor. The Dean of Christ Church Cathedral was appointed Clerical Hon. Secretary to the Synod.

In his address the Primate touched on two subjects of outstanding importance. Regarding the boundary problem, he said that, so far as he could see, the only way to prevent the emergence of fresh trouble was by agreement between the Free State and Northern Governments.

The Anglo-Catholic movement within the Church of England was criticised sharply. "I resent very strongly," said the Primate, "the manner in which the term 'Catholic' is used now as the badge of a party. . . . The Church of Ireland is a Protestant Church, but it is also in the true sense Catholic."

The aim of the Anglo-Catholics who sought to restore the methods of thought and of worship of the Middle Ages, or to produce something like them, was fantastic and absurd.

PRIMATE'S ADDRESS.

MANY CHANGES RECORDED.

The President, who was very cordially received, said that there had been many changes since they met last year. Very soon after that, Bishop Ross, of Tuam, who was then dangerously ill, was called away, and the Church lost a leader of great promise, whose manly character and unfailing devotion to duty seemed to mark him out as one to whom they might look for guidance and strength for many a year. Three days after the death of Bishop Ross, Bishop Day of Clogher passed away suddenly, after a long life of happy and fruitful labour, amidst the benedictions of his people. In December of last year there also passed away two Bishops who were living in retirement for some years—Bishop O'Hara, formerly of Cashel, to whose wisdom and foresight was mainly due the founding of Belfast Cathedral, when he filled the office of Dean of Belfast; and Bishop Chadwick, who was brilliant as writer, orator and debater. Amongst the clergy, they had lost Dean McClintock, of Armagh, and Archdeacon Hobson, of Armagh, as well as the Ven. J. G. Fahey, Archdeacon of Ardfert, and Canon Jennings, of Dublin.

Two, in particular, amongst the laity of the Synod died during the past year—namely, General Ricardo, of Derry, whose wisdom and self-sacrificing service should be held in lasting remembrance; and Mr. G. Herbert Ewart, of Belfast, one of the wisest of their advisers in matters of finance, and one whose love for his Church never failed. The Synod had also lost Colonel R. H. Heygate, Lord Frederick FitzGerald, and Messrs. A. E. Brash, G. H. Carke, R. C. M. [illegible], R. C. Hamilton, J. G. Massey-[illegible], W. J. Talbot, H. M.L.; C. R. Henry, A. L. Gildea, R. M. O'Grady, A. A. Hargrave, M.D.; C. W. Dunbar-Buller, D.L., and E. N. Wynne.

During the past year the House of Bishops had undergone another change through the resignation, for reasons of health, of Bishop Berry, formerly of Killaloe, and one result of the change which had occurred was that they had with them that day three bishops who for the first time appeared in General Synod as members of the House to which they belonged, and he gave them a hearty welcome in their name. (Applause.)

THE BOUNDARY.

Two subjects claimed attention from [illegible]. One concerned their native land, the [illegible] the whole Anglican communion. The former was the difficulty that had arisen in connection with the boundary between Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State. Surely, beloved them all to use whatever influence they possessed to prevent the emergence of a fresh cause of trouble and disagreement in their long-distracted country; and, so far as he could see, that could only be done by agreement between the two Governments. (Applause.) If anything was done which would leave behind it further cause of quarrel and bitterness, the hopes of peace which they had been cherishing would be blighted.

The one thing needed above all at present was that time might be given for scars to heal, and the nervous excitements which had almost paralysed the body-politic to pass away. (Hear, hear.)

The other subject which he felt he must touch upon was the disturbance caused by what was termed the Anglo-Catholic movement within the Church of England. He could not discuss that movement at any length, or examine closely its aims or tendencies. Time would fail him. His purpose was quite different. He desired to place it for a few moment in its historical perspective. And, first, he wished to say that he resented very strongly the manner in which the term "Catholic" was used now, as the badge of a party. (Applause.) That was both unhistorical and insulting to those who do not belong to that party. They were all Catholics. (Applause.) But he confessed with great readiness of mind that he was also a Protestant, and not at all ashamed of the fact. (Hear, hear.)

PROTESTANT AND CATHOLIC.

The Church of Ireland was a Protestant Church, but it was, also, in the true sense, Catholic. (Hear, hear.) These two terms were not by any means mutually exclusive, as many to-day seemed to think. In the Creed they said: "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church," and every educated Churchman knew what he meant when he used those words. However, he might further define it. He meant that there was in existence a great body of Christian people who, taken all together, formed one universal community. (Hear, hear.) The assertion was entirely antagonistic to sectionalism in every shape and form. Therefore, no party within the Church had a right to take the term "Catholic" and use it as if it were theirs exclusively. (Applause.)

It was a misleading thing to do—he might

CHURCH OF IRELAND SYNOD.

almost say that it was an evil thing to do. But it would be said that those who claimed the description "Anglo-Catholic" might justly be so called because they sought to restore true Catholicity to the Church. Here they approached the very centre of the whole discussion.

Where was true Catholicity found? According to the so-called Anglo-Catholics, it was to be found in the Christianity, and in the society and ecclesiastical systems of the Middle Ages. The Middle Ages, their method of thought and of worship, their dominating ecclesiasticism, even their methods of industrial organisation, were set before them as the ideal to be realised in the modern world. That was not his way of putting things. It was set forth in dozens of volumes from the pens of clerical and lay writers of that school. There was in England at present a veritable cult of the Middle Ages, or what the Middle Ages were supposed to have been.

AN ABSURD AIM.

He granted the charm of the Middle Ages, and when he saw the glorious cathedrals of England, France and Italy, and thought of the 12th, 13th, and 14th centuries, when the finest of them were built, he could not but wonder at the blended piety and imagination which brought such splendid creations into being. Yet when he tried to penetrate into the spirit of the age, he found something very different. He found that the masses of the people were serfs, living under far harder conditions than the humblest labourers of the present day, and that there was incessant strife between the ecclesiastical and secular authorities. He found that up to a certain point the Church succeeded in dominating the nations, but did so by the use of the Interdict, that most cruel and unjust weapon by which whole peoples were made to suffer, because their rulers disagreed with the ecclesiastical authorities. The aim of those who sought to restore the Middle Ages, or to produce anything like them, was absurd and fantastic.

The great charm for some minds, was, of course, the sovereignty of the Church over all other authorities. There were people who would like to put all men under lock and key, the clergy to have the keeping of the keys. But what would be said to-day if the Church placed a nation under an Interdict? The whole world would laugh.

The great scholars of the English Reformation went back to the primitive age, and were right in doing so. During the first four centuries of the Christian era, all Western Europe and the region now known as the Near East, as well as Northern Africa, were occupied by a great civilisation, Latin in organisation, but having absorbed the thought and culture of Greece. That old Græco-Roman world was as rich and, in many respects, as advanced in civilisation as our own. As to its more external condition, he asked them to listen to Tertullian, from whose treatise, De Anima, he quoted, descriptive of Northern Africa in the year 200. It might, he said, be written of England to-day.

FOUNDERS OF SCHOLARSHIP.

It was in that wonderful ancient civilisation that the Christian Church was established and spread as the Catholic, or Universal, Church. It was in those surroundings that the greatest of all Christian teachers and theologians flourished: Clement, Origen, and Athanasius, among the Greeks; Tertullian, Cyprian, Augustine, among the Latins. These were the men who founded Christian theology, and shaped it for all succeeding ages. They were also the founders of Christian scholarship.

When they went back to that age to learn what was the character of the Catholicism which made primitive Christianity the glorious and wonderful thing that it was, they found a simplicity, a freedom and a comprehensiveness which most strongly contrasted with the spirit of later times. If they were ever to arrive at a truly organic Catholicism—that was, a re-union of Christian forces which would enable the Church to face the world with a single aim, and win it for Christ—it must be by a return, not to the Middle Ages, but to the great simplicity, freedom and comprehensiveness of the primitive age; not, of course, to its exact methods of thought, or ways of expression or to its characteristic peculiarities of outlook, but to its spirit, its aim, and its largeness of grasp.

This was the very meaning of the proposals on re-union put forth by the Lambeth Conference of 1920. Acknowledging all who believed in our Lord Jesus Christ and have been baptised with Christian baptism as members of the Universal Church, the purpose of those proposals was to bring all such together into one fellowship on the broad basis of Holy Scripture and the primitive creeds, the two Sacraments, and a ministry universally acknowledged.

"If that can be attained," concluded the President, "we shall have realised the true Catholicism." (Applause.)

THE AGENDA.

The Synod gave permission for the introduction of bills amending sections of Chapter 2 of the Constitution, dealing with lay representation and the formation of the Diocesan Councils; re-arranging dignities and the relations of Cathedral Churches in the united dioceses of Kilmore, Elphin and Ardagh; re-arranging dignities and the regulations of the Cathedral Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Elphin; amending canon 42, Chapter 9, of the Constitution, dealing with the preclusion of public controversy and contention during all times of Divine Service; and carrying into effect certain resolutions of the General Synod.

The bills were read a first time, and the second reading was fixed for to-day.

Permission was refused to introduce a bill to amend the Minimum Stipend Act, 1920; and to bring in a bill to amend Chapter 3 of the Constitution in relation to the provision for the holding of Vestries.

On a division, leave was refused by 152 votes to 125, to bring in a bill to amend the mode of electing clerical representatives to the General Synod and Diocesan Councils.

A resolution was passed, asking the Bishops to appoint a Sunday during the year to be observed in the Churches of the Church of Ireland as a day of intercession for unity in the Church of Christ.

The Bishop of Meath proposed a motion dealing with the Commission for the Union of Parishes, whose work, it was anticipated, would be completed in 1925, and for the reappointment of which no necessity would have arisen.

His proposition was that the Standing Committee be instructed to prepare and introduce a bill at the meeting of the General Synod of 1925, transferring to some permanent authority powers entrusted to the Commission under Section 3 of the Minimum Stipend Act, 1920, and under Section 3 of the Light-Duty Parish Act, 1920, and under Section 4 (a) of the Central Fund Act, 1920.

He said that the work of the Commission was practically concluded and the final report would be presented to the next General Synod, but the powers that had been given to the Commission should be transferred as suggested.

The resolution was passed.

CENTRAL EMERGENCY FUND.

Canon Kingsmill Moore proposed the reception of the report of the Central Emergency Fund. He said that the total sum received from all sources—almost £36,000—showed how efficacious the Fund was, and he thought that it could be fairly claimed that the Fund had done what it had aimed at.

Major MacGillycuddy seconded the motion, which was passed.

It was resolved that the Central Emergency Fund Committee be not reappointed, and that any moneys contributed after the 8th April, 1924, by any diocese now participating be held at the disposal of such diocese and be allocated at the discretion of the Diocesan Lay Committee, each Diocesan Lay Committee to report to the annual Synod of the diocese.

It was also proposed that the capital of the moiety of the Langford Trust Fund be transferred to the Poor Parishes Fund, and that the interest thereof be administered by the Representative Church Body to help the poor and most needy clergy by augmentation of stipend.

The report of the Central Emergency Fund was then adopted.

THANKS TO THE LAITY.

On the motion of Canon E. H. Lewis-Crosby, seconded by Canon Kingsmill Moore, a resolution was unanimously passed expressing the deep gratitude of the Synod to the laity of the Church of Ireland who came to the assistance of their Church at a time of great difficulty and financial distress, and by their liberality and eloquent advocacy raised a sum of £34,538 10s. 7d. for the Central Emergency Fund.

The Archbishop of Dublin said that they owed to the laity a debt which it was impossible to put into words. He wished from the bottom of his heart to thank those contributors who had made it possible to bring into many houses a message of such comfort as had been given by the aid of the Central Emergency Fund. (Applause.)

HOME REUNION.

The Bishop of Limerick proposed, and Mr. W. H. Going seconded, the adoption of the report of the Home Reunion Committee.

The President, in answer to some of the members, said that there was a joint committee of the Presbyterian Church and the Church of Ireland doing work of a really very important nature, but it would be impossible to make any public statement regarding it at present, as they had not yet arrived at the time when it could be made.

The report was passed.

COUNCIL OF CHRISTIAN CHURCHES.

The Bishop of Down proposed the adoption of the report of the Committee appointed to co-operate with the Committee appointed by the General Assembly. He said that it was really the second report of the United Council of Christian Churches in Ireland, which was formed two years ago, as the Joint Committee had naturally become merged in it. A deputation from the Council was cordially received by the General Assembly in Belfast in June last, the Bishop of Cashel being the spokesman; and they who came from Belfast felt that a very great and good work was done there. (Hear, hear.)

A very happy spirit had prevailed. The United Council was very watchful regarding legislation. They watched the temperance legislation of Northern Ireland, already passed and working, and they had hopes that temperance legislation for Southern Ireland would also take place. (Hear, hear.) He thought a great work was being done by this Committee, for it helped to co-ordinate the Christian forces of Ireland.

He also proposed that the following be appointed to represent the Church of Ireland on the United Council of Christian Churches:—The Bishop of Derry, the Bishop of Cashel, the Bishop of Down, the Bishop of Limerick, the Dean of Christ Church, Canon J. E. Browne, B.D.; Canon E. H. Lewis-Crosby, B.D.; the Rev. T. W. E. Drury, the Rev. D. H. Hall, B.D., and Messrs. John Bristow, W. A. Ferrar and S. A. Robinson.

Canon J. E. Browne seconded the motion, and said that it was hoped to appoint local committees in different large centres in order to look after social problems in their own neighbourhood.

The report was passed.

GENERAL STATE OF THE CHURCH.

Mr. Maconchy announced that notice of motion had been handed in to consider the general state of the Church, its progress, prospects and needs, and would be taken up at 11 o'clock this morning. "During the consideration of that motion," he added, "neither strangers nor reporters will be admitted to the House. The gallery will not be open, probably, until 12 o'clock, and reporters will not be admitted until, probably, 12 o'clock."

The Synod adjourned until this morning.

TO-DAY'S AGENDA.

The following is the agenda for to-day:—

Notice having been given that under Standing Order No. 70 the General State of the Church be taken into consideration, the meeting of the Synod will not be open to strangers or Press before 12 o'clock.

The President to take the chair at 11 o'clock.

IRISH CHURCH MISSIONS.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The Rev. G. A. Stephenson, LL.D., presided at the annual meeting of the Irish Church Missions yesterday at the Mission Buildings, Townsend street, Dublin. The Rev. T. C. Hammond presented the annual report, and spoke of the excellent work that had been accomplished during the year.

The Rev. R. Mercer Wilson referred to the large number that had been rescued from want and degradation in all parts of Ireland, and declared that the Irish Church Mission recognised no boundary to its work of mercy. He paid a tribute to the efforts of the Rev. Mr. Hammond.

The Rev. E. E. J. Martin, an English visitor, expressed his pleasure at coming to Ireland, and said that he would not forget the Green Isle, even amidst the bustle of South London. He would not forget the unity and simplicity of that venerable Society, and the thrilling story of all the good that had been achieved in such places as Dublin and Limerick.

Dr. Long, Limerick, also addressed the meeting.

TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

BISHOP OF CLOGHER ON DRINK EVIL.

Presiding at the annual meeting of the Church of Ireland Temperance Society, held at the Gregg Memorial Hall, Dublin, yesterday, the Bishop of Clogher said that temperance advocates were frequently accused of interfering with other people's liberty and freedom, but the fact was that they were most anxiously endeavouring to preserve the freedom of persons who, if left to their own devices, would very soon have no freedom whatever. Every man with experience of the world knew that in cases where people over-indulged in drink the day came when such people were no longer able to defend themselves. Therefore, it was the duty of all who could help to do so by every means in their power.

The awful expenditure on strong drink was a mere nothing when compared with the moral degradation caused by intemperance. He would not label intoxicating drink as poison, but he held that it ought to be under the control of medical practitioners.

The Rev. E. E. J. Martin, St. James's, Hatcham, London, proposed that the Government should be urged to press forward legislation for the reform of the Licensing Laws, the reform to include the extinction of spirit grocers' licences, entire Sunday closing, the withdrawal of permission to serve bona fide travellers, the withholding of new licences, sterner restrictions as to the sale of drink to children, and the reduction by half of the existing number of public-houses.

One of the greatest evils in England was the drink evil, he declared. He was rector of a parish of 30,000 souls in South London, and consequently had a wide experience as to the evils of drink. During the past few years there had grown up in London the disgusting practice of women drinking in public-houses, but about the saddest sight of all was to see young girls standing at public bars drinking intoxicating liquor.

Dr. H. T. Bewley seconding the resolution, said that while in certain circumstances alcohol might have its uses, it was absolutely unnecessary to any person in good health. The healthy stomach did not need alcohol, but it degenerated rapidly when alcohol was taken to excess. Alcohol acted as a depressant, and had a paralysing tendency. Alcohol was absolutely poisonous to people in health. As to its uses in the treatment of the sick, it was by no means the great panacea that their forefathers believed it to be. At the present time it was prescribed very sparingly, as compared with the lavish way in which it was ordered in former days. For instance, at the Adelaide Hospital, Dublin, in 1872 the expenditure on alcohol per patient was 5s. 2d.; in 1922 it was 3d.

Alcohol in moderation—as, for instance, a bottle of beer or a glass of whiskey once a day—was not necessarily bad for a healthy man or woman, but there were other questions to be considered, such as example and influence. For himself, he knew perfectly well that there were in Dublin men and women who badly needed help, and if his example was worth anything to such people, they should have it.

The resolution was passed.

The Clonmel Branch of the Cumann na nGaedheal has passed a resolution condemning the murder of Sergeant Griffin, of the Civic Guard, and the wounding of Guard Murrin, and appealing to the people to assist in bringing the perpetrators to justice.

CHURCH OF IRELAND JEWS' SOCIETY.

GOOD WORK ABROAD.

The Bishop of Cashel presided at the annual meeting of the Church of Ireland Jews' Society yesterday afternoon in the Gregg Memorial Hall, Dawson street, Dublin.

The Rev. H. G. Warren, M.A., secretary, presented the report for the year 1923-1924, which outlined the activities of the Society in its various mission fields. It stated that they were unable to give much support to the Hamburg Home, as they had to allocate their funds to foster the more fruitful work among the Jewry of Eastern Europe. So far as the mission work in Ireland was concerned, the country could be regarded as having returned to normal conditions. There had been opposition to the work on the part of the Jewish authorities, but this was inevitable when signs of success were seen.

In presenting the statement of accounts, the Committee reported that the income from all sources was £5,031 15s. 1d., being £248 7s. 6d. more than the amount received last year. A sum of £1,200 15s. 7d. was remitted to the Parent Society in London, and to the Mission Field direct, for special purposes, and £1,415 10s. was remitted to London for the General Fund, being £500 more than last year.

We are met here, the Chairman said, to show our interest in the Society, which, we may say without exaggeration, is one of the most important Missionary Societies in existence. We, who are interested in missionary work, have now a clearer perception of its importance than ever before. The Church is confronted with an antagonism, more deadly, more concentrated, more powerful than has hitherto been experienced in the whole history of our faith. Interest in missionary work is, therefore, of vital importance at the present time.

The importance of the work of the Society for Promoting Christianity Amongst the Jews is being more definitely recognised than ever before in this country. The Irish branch of the Society is fortunate in having as secretary one who has himself been a missionary, and whose ability and zeal are appreciated throughout the whole Church; for zeal for spreading Christianity has an important bearing upon the work amongst the Jewish race. If you are able to turn the race towards Christ and his principles you have gone a long way towards the Christianising of the world.

WORK IN VARIOUS FIELDS.

The Rev. C. H. Gill, M.A., Secretary of the Parent Society in London, spoke of the work carried on in the various mission fields. In his visit to Poland, he said he had seen marvellous results of work carried on by colporteurs and other workers. He instanced the case of two colporteurs who visited a Jewish village, and hired a hall for a Service. That day they had seven Services, one after another, and many of the listeners were so interested that they went to Warsaw to learn more about Christianity. That was only one instance of the wonderful revival that was going on in Poland, and it was all the more remarkable when it was considered that the only practical Christianity they had experienced was persecution and pogroms. Many of the inquirers were young Jews, keen in intellect, who found Bolshevism and Socialism insufficient to satisfy their desire for the truth, and they were thus turning to Christianity to find what they desired.

In Tunisia and Algeria, Mr. Gill continued, every Jewish community within a radius of several hundred miles had been visited at least once during the past seven years. One visit in seven years did not seem much, but it was found, again and again, that the message of the Gospel grew in the minds of the people. In this way many of the Jews had been persuaded of the truth of the Gospel. In Morocco one Hebrew Christian woman managed, within a short time, to get a congregation of three thousand Jews to come and listen to her message, and in this way the work was being carried on all over that region.

In Abyssinia there were some Jewish converts who, though persecuted, managed to keep the missionary work alive. Now that Abyssinia was a member of the League of Nations freedom of religious belief was granted to all, and thus the work would increase more rapidly. Persia and Palestine were also fruitful fields.

The report and statement of accounts were adopted, and the Committee was re-elected unanimously.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY.

The thirtieth annual meeting of the members of the Incorporated Society for Promoting Protestant Schools in Ireland was held on Monday last in the Diocesan boardroom, 43 Kildare street, Dublin, the Archbishop of Dublin, and subsequently the Rev. Canon S. Ridgeway, in the chair. There were also present:—The Bishop of Kilmore, the Bishop of Cashel, the Bishop of Clogher, the Archdeacon of Dublin, Rev. Canon J. R. Ardill, LL.D.; the Dean of Kilmore, D.D.; Rev. J. H. Rice, Dermod O'Brien, D.L.; Professor W. E. Thrift, F.T.C.D., M.P.; E. J. Gwynn, F.T.C.D.; Rev. Canon F. W. Greer, A. Purser, Captain F. La T. SYNOD JOTTINGS.

FROM OUR CHURCH OF IRELAND CORRESPONDENT.

The opening session of the Church of Ireland Synod was marked by a very full attendance, the number present being quite up to that of recent years. The Primate's opening address was listened to with marked attention. His references to the losses sustained during the year by death were apt and sympathetic, and his address was marked by dignity and learning, relieved here and there by flashes of kindly humour.

In welcoming the recently-elected bishops to the Synod, his reference to the Bishop of Killaloe as the "recording angel of the Church of Ireland" quite took the fancy of the house.

The moving of the introduction of certain bills gave rise to some liveliness in the case of bills dealing with proposals to amend the Minimum Stipend Act, 1920, and to permit the nomination of the holders of certain dignities as members of the General Synod and Diocesan Councils. The house refused leave for the introduction of these bills.

The appreciation by the Bench of Bishops of what the laity had done in making the Central Emergency Fund such a success was conveyed to the lay members of the Synod very gracefully by the Archbishop of Dublin.

Resolutions dealing with the opening portion of Morning and Evening Prayer, and resolutions dealing with the wording of the State Prayers, were, after considerable discussion, referred back to the Prayer Book Committee for amendment.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Rev. John Frazer was instituted rector of St. Michael's parish, Belfast, by the Bishop of Down, Connor and Dromore, at a Service held last Saturday afternoon. The Archdeacon of Connor acted as registrar, and Canon Browne as chaplain. The other clergy present were:—Canon Walker, the Rev. J. Quinn, the Rev. W. J. Dunlop, the Rev. R. H. White, the Rev. J. C. Rutherford, the Rev. R. C. Lapham, the Rev. R. H. Egar, the Rev. A. E. McCaig, the Rev. J. R. West, the Rev. W. F. Frazer, the Rev. C. J. McLeod, the Rev. R. T. Price and the Rev. J. J. McCorry. A guard of honour was provided by the members of St. Michael's Company of the Church Lads' Brigade, with pipe band.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL SCHOOL.

It is announced in our advertisement columns to-day that a concert will be given in the Molesworth Hall, Dublin, by the boys of the St. Patrick's Cathedral Choir, who will present an adaptation of Shakespeare's "Mid-Summer Night's Dream." The music has been written by Martin Shaw, and is very beautiful. On the last occasion that this was performed the hall was overcrowded.

WHISKEY REMOVALS IN AMERICA.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS IMPRISONED.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

According to advices from Covington, Kentucky, Mr. Langley, member of Congress, and several other defendants have been found guilty by a jury of a Federal Court on a charge of conspiracy alleged to have been committed in 1921. It is alleged that they removed fourteen hundred cases of whiskey from a distillery and sold them.

Mr. Langley was specifically charged with using his political influence to obtain from the Federal Prohibition Director permits allowing the whiskey to be transported by trucks.

Langley and his associates have each been sentenced to two years' imprisonment. No fines were imposed by the Court.—(Reuter.)

IRISH RAILWAYS.

DEMAND BY MANCHESTER BUSINESS MEN.

At a recent meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce the following resolution was passed:—

"That the Secretary be directed to communicate with Irish Chambers of Commerce and other interested bodies in Ireland requesting them to press for provision to be made which will preclude the Irish railway companies from making any through railway arrangements giving preference to any one British port over any other, and so remove the disability under which Ireland in general, and Manchester in particular, is suffering in regard to the trade between Ireland and Manchester."

It is complained in Manchester that up to the present the English and Irish railway companies have refused to extend the advantage of through rates to any steamship line running between Ireland and Manchester, with the consequence that steamers on this service are practically limited to competing for traffic which arises at an Irish port, and even then are prohibited from quoting rates to Manchester and inland places more than 10 per cent. below the rates via other English ports.

It is suggested that in the new Railways Bill provision should be made to secure such through rates between inland points in Ireland and inland points in England.

MASTER PAINTERS.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF IRISH ASSOCIATION.

Mr. Arthur C. Sibthorpe was elected President of the National Association of Master Painters and Decorators at the annual Convention of the Association, in Dublin, yesterday.

In acknowledging the honour conferred on him, Mr. Sibthorpe said that the years 1921 and 1922 had been very serious for their trade, but their troubles seemed to have now entirely passed, and it looked as if law and order were being established once more in the country. They, therefore, could look to the future with hope. They had particular reason for hopefulness with regard to Dublin and Leinster generally.

At the moment the trade was experiencing a rush of work. It was, unfortunately, very difficult to get enamel hands, and good journeymen painters were very scarce.

Mr. Sibthorpe presented the Past Masters' Badge of the Association to Mr. H. M. Dockrell, the outgoing President. Mr. Dockrell, he said, had rendered very valuable services to the organisation during his period of office.

The Convention adopted the new regulations in connection with the Association's International Travelling Scholarship.

TWO HOUSES BURNED.

Two houses in the Main street, Irvinestown, took fire yesterday evening. One, which was unoccupied, was bought recently by an ex-policeman, and the other was the grocery establishment of James Carleton. The inhabitants fought to save the adjoining property, but there was no chance of saving the two houses, which were thatched.

COMMANDEERED PETROL.

At Cork Borough Sessions yesterday, Shell Mex (Dublin), Ltd., were awarded £2,176 compensation for petrol and oil commandeered by Irregulars at Cork from March to August, 1922. The award represented twenty-three and one-third reduction on the company's claim.

RECENT WILLS.

Henry Stewart O'Hara, of Laurel Hill, Coleraine, Londonderry, formerly Bishop of Cashel, Emly, Waterford, and Lismore, Rector of Coleraine, Vicar of Belfast, and first Dean and Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, who died on December 11 last, left personal estate in England and Northern Ireland of the value of £16,585. He leaves all his property to his wife for life, and on her death £500 towards building or purchasing a residence for the Dean of St. Ann's Cathedral, Belfast; £500 in trust for the Rector of the Parish of Coleraine, in augmentation of the income; £500 to the Diocesan Clerical Superannuation Fund of the United Dioceses of Down and Connor and Dromore; £200 in augmentation of the income of the minister in charge of the Parish of Killowen, in the Diocese of Derry; £200 to his butler, Isaac Glenny; £100 to his gardener, Long; and small legacies to other servants. The other bequests are of a family and personal nature.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ARCHDALE.

The funeral of Mrs. E. M. Archdale took place yesterday afternoon from her home at Riversdale, County Fermanagh, to Trory Churchyard. The funeral cortège was over a mile in length, and was attended by the leading men in the county.

Among those present were Mr. A. H. Blackmore, private secretary to Sir James Craig, representing the Prime Minister; Messrs. J. Coyle and J. S. Gordon, of the Department of Agriculture, and Mr. David Devlin.

The chief mourners were:—Right Hon. E. M. Archdale (husband), Captain Archdale, R.N. (son), Mr. and Mrs. Tottenham (son-in-law and daughter), Lieut.-Colonel Blackwood Archdale (cousin), Mr. John Porter Porter, D.L. (brother-in-law).

The Service was conducted by the Rev. Hubert McManaway, rector of the parish.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

The Cork Methodist Synod has this year met in Bandon, and Rev. William Corrigan, Chairman of the District, presided. The Secretary, Rev. W. W. Hutchinson, assisted by Rev. F. McIvor, introduced the business. There were 36 class leaders and 36 local preachers on the district, 36 sabbath and 68 week-night preaching places. There are 2,027 members, and 65 of these are connected with the naval work. Mr. R. L. Davidson was nominated for election to the coming Conference in Cork. The supernumerary report was presented by Mr. R. L. Davidson, and chapel affairs were reported on by the Rev. William Moore.

The General Committee of Management met yesterday morning. Grants amounting to £215 were made in the case of affliction in ministers' families.

The report on General Education was presented by the Rev. W. A. Smyth, who said that the schools were substantially the same as this time last year. The teachers' salaries had slightly increased. Religious instruction was given in several of the schools. The Committee is still in session. The following were elected representatives to the coming Conference in Cork:—Messrs. A. Baskin, A. Bunting, J. R. Coade, W. M. Forsyth, A. M. Fullerton, A. H. Gibson, J. B. McCutcheon, Ernest Mercier, and W. G. Smith.

FEIS CEOIL.

THE RATHMINES CUP.

CLEVER CHILD PIANISTS.

Ten competitions were set down for decision yesterday, the second day of the twenty-eighth Feis Ceoil, and visitors, unless directed by some special interest, found it difficult to decide which of the three buildings in Abbey street, Dublin, they should enter.

In the Abbey Theatre, pianoforte students, under twelve years of age, were heard by Mr. Lloyd Powell, the adjudicator in the "Special Junior" pianoforte class. This class was formed some years ago to relieve the congestion in the ordinary junior class; but both classes have grown, and while there were eighty competitors in the "junior" class on Monday (for students under 16 years of age) there were almost sixty in the "special" class yesterday—an advance of twenty on last year's number. Mr. Lloyd Powell seems to be very enthusiastic about the state of pianoforte playing among Dublin children. He went almost to the limit of praise about the junior competition on Monday; but yesterday he said that the general standard in the special junior class was higher still. Besides the prize-winners, more than twenty competitors were commended.

CONTRALTOS PRAISED.

In the Metropolitan Hall, during the day, two of the "regular" vocal classes were judged. Miss Denne Parker heard the contraltos (18 entries) in the morning, and Mr. Dan Price the baritones (24 entries) in the afternoon. In the contralto awards, it was interesting to notice that the gold medal went to last year's silver medallist, and the silver medal to a former bronze medallist. The adjudicator advised competitors to take greater care with breath control and diction. She praised the general standard of the competition, and the quality of the voices. The winner, she said, had a real sense of tone colour, and her phrasing was splendid in parts, the result being a beautiful interpretation. The test pieces in the contralto solo class were "Sapphic Ode" (Brahms) and "The Next Market Day" (Herbert Hughes).

HARD WORDS FOR BARITONES.

Mr. Dan Price, who judged the baritones, finished the afternoon with one of those racy pieces of criticism which are going to make him remembered here. The test pieces were "Yearnings" (Rubinstein) and "By the short cut to Rosses" (Milligan Fox), and, as usual in these classes, there was a sight test. There were lots of good voices, Mr. Price said, and lots of the competitors had a very good notion of how to treat the music. The prevailing difficulty was not how to treat the songs, but how to treat the voices. Production was faulty: there was a want of "covered" tone. The tone was naked, unclothed, he said, barking out an illustration of what he meant. With a "covered" tone he put the need of singing in the right register. "Using head notes instead of bawling on top notes" was the way he put it. All his criticism was directed to the management of the voice. Breath control and voice production were the weak points. "They knew what to do with the song, but the voice would not do it." Mr. Percy Gillespie, the winner of the gold medal, whose performance he did not discuss at all, was the silver medallist in this class last year. He received 88 marks, No. 16 received 83, No. 18 received 81, Nos. 1 and 7 received 80. Some of the competitors were marked as low as 71, and one received only 66 marks. Mr. Price has very definite criteria.

HELPFUL CRITICISM.

The morning's work for Dr. Percy Hull, in the Abbey Lecture Hall, was the hearing of sixteen pairs of competitors for the Ladies' Committee prize of £5 for ladies' vocal duets. Competitors choose their own tests in this competition, and it was found that they still turn to Mendelssohn and Rubinstein for music to sing. Both of the winning duets (for the adjudicator was unable to decide between Nos. 14 and 15 for the prize) gave a Mendelssohn number, and, while No. 14 sang Mozart's "Ah perdrona al primo affretto," No. 15 brought forward an Italian duet by Carracilo. The Mendelssohn selection in the latter case was "Lord Bow Thine Ear," from "Elijah"; and Dr. Hull criticised that selection, because it is not itself without the chorus part. He invited the competitors to apply to him about a month hence for the names of some good duets suitable for their further study. Dr. Hull's frank and breezy remarks on individual performances are greatly enjoyed by competitors and audiences. In this competition he stated that the marks gained for enunciation, tone, rhythm, and phrasing had been very even, the deciding factors being blend, pitch, and general effect. He was very pleased with the balance of both the winning pairs.

In the afternoon Dr. Hull adjudicated on the competitions for children's choirs and string orchestra. Two children's choirs were entered, and they had to sing "The Nightingale" (Bateson) and "Play" (F. Corder) and a sight test. The adjudicator gave high praise to the winning choir, from the Loreto National School Choir, Leeson lane, especially for their singing of the sight test. He spoke encouraging words to both choirs, and gave a great deal of good advice. He invited the teachers to a private talk afterwards, and advised them to leave a good deal to the children themselves—not to drill them too much. As on the previous day, he expressed regret that boys were not brought forward in competitions of this class. At that age, he said, boys' voices were far superior to girls'.

"ELGARITIS."

In the string orchestra class there were three entries—the Dominican College, Eccles street, Miss Petite O'Hara's Orchestra, and Alexandra College Orchestra—and the audience enjoyed three interesting performances of Elgar's Serenade. At the close, Dr. Hull, confessing himself badly smitten with "Elgaritis"—incidentally he gave some interesting personal notes on the distinguished composer—commended the choice of the test piece. He expressed his own enjoyment of the performances, and gave his marking—97 marks for the Alexandra College Orchestra, 94 for Miss O'Hara's, and 93 for the Eccles street Convent. His detailed remarks, summarised, were to the effect that, with an orchestra of inferior technique, Miss Feely secured an extremely poetical rendering. Miss O'Hara's orchestra had better technical equipment, but the interpretation lacked imagination; while the Alexandra College Orchestra, though having some faults such as a slight hardness in delicate passages, showed both poetical temperament and technical facility. Miss Starkie, as a conductor, he said, was really first class.

At night Dr. Hull adjudicated on female voice choirs and the small orchestra competition. Dr. Hull advised the small choirs to practise plenty of unaccompanied choral music, and his advice to the conductors was—"Don't get too fretty." He gave very high praise to Miss Sylvia Fannin's choir, and congratulated the conductor heartily on the beautiful interpretation of both test pieces—Moussorgsky's "What means this sadness?" and Martini's "A measure to pleasure your leisure."

As regards the two larger choirs, which he placed very close together in merit, he spoke of the "most inspiring" rendering by the winners, "with a fine idea of climax." He found points of delicacy, however, in which the Kildare street choir were better, and he placed them so near the winners that he asked the Committee to consider them for a prize, even though only the two choirs had competed.

About the orchestras, also, Dr. Hull waxed enthusiastic, commenting on technical faults, but praising the spirit and enthusiasm of the renderings of the first movement of Mozart's Symphony in G minor. He awarded the prize to Mr. Delany's Orchestra, mainly because of their better attention to light and shade, and the balance of the orchestra. At the same time, he indicated that Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald's Father Mathew Orchestra had also received good marks.

DRAMATIC SINGING.

For the general public the most interesting competition was that in the Metropolitan Hall, at night, for the Cup presented by the Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society. The test was a song or scena from an opera, selected by the competitor, and "to be sung with appropriate gestures." Some of the thirteen competitors appeared in costume, and the audiences were treated to interesting performances of scenes from "Louise," Verdi's "Don Carlos" and "Il Trovatore," "Carmen," "La Tosca," "Mignon," "Pagliacci," and Borodine's "Prince Igor." In an interval Miss Deune Parker sang some Hebridean songs.

Not the least entertaining part of the proceedings was Mr. Dan Price's performance at the close. It could not be described as a speech. With racy criticisms of the individual competitors, he mingled illustrations of the right and wrong ways of singing. He had hearty praise to give, too. "We have had an excellent entertainment," he said, "you ought to have enjoyed it immensely. Excellent singing and a splendid lot of voices. This is the best show I have heard yet in the Feis, by a long way. The voices were much more musical in sound than those I heard in the other competitions." He admitted that there was room for difference of opinion as to the merits of the competitors; but he had reasons for his choice, and he gave them. The breeziness of his remarks amused the audience. He said that one competitor's words were "terribly clear." In another case he referred to the singing of "Elizabeth's Greeting," from "Lohengrin" or "Tannhauser," "I forget which." Of another song, "The Ballatella," from "Pagliacci," he said: "I do not care for that song: I got tired of it." But for Miss Hilda Dobbs's singing of Micaela's song he had only unstinted praise. The choice of song was exactly right for the singer: her manner was right, and her voice was right. He also praised Mr. Woods, who sang the "Prince Igor" song, and when he read out his marks—he always announces each competitor's marks—it appeared that he had placed Mr. Woods only one mark below Miss Dobbs.

Mr. Lionel Cranfield, on behalf of the Rathmines Musical Society, handed the cup to Miss Dobbs, and there was hearty applause.

Mr. Price told the audience that he had seen the Rathmines and Rathgar Society do "Iolanthe" on Saturday night last. "I had a most delightful evening. They had some charming solo singing. But I noticed there that the ladies' voices are superior to the men's. The ladies, as a rule, know what to do with their voices better than the men do—perhaps because they practice so much in talking—(laughter)—perhaps because they have more time for study."

Government inspectors have called attention to the large number of vaccination defaulters in Arklow and Wicklow. There are a thousand cases in the former district.

THOMASTOWN CATTLE DRIVE.—Cattle have been driven from the lands of Jerpoint Church, Thomastown, Co. Kilkenny. A number of uneconomic holders in the district claim that the farm, which contains a hundred acres, should be divided among them. The cattle were found at Knocktopher, four miles away from the farm.

STORY OF A WOODEN LEG.—William Ryan, an inmate of the Thomastown, County Kilkenny, Union, applied to the Board of Health for money to pay for repairs to his artificial leg, which was purchased for him by the Bishop of Ossory, and cost 10 guineas. He said that he had been ordered up a ladder to whitewash and to clean windows in the Home, and while doing so fell from the ladder and broke the leg, which was being kept together now by nails put into it by the carpenter. The house steward, however, said that the letter was "a pack of lies," and the Board decided to ignore it.

ENTERPRISE IN KILLALOE.—The recently formed Killaloe Town Improvements Association has taken some steps to restore the amenities of the town. A noted viewpoint on high land overlooking the River Shannon and Lough Derg has been drained and repaired and the footpath covered with cinders. A piece of land well away from the streets of the town has been set aside for use as a rubbish dump. It has been suggested that the regatta should be revived.

ULSTER.

ECHO OF AN 1878 MURDER.—While carrying out repairs to the road from Carrigart to Milford at Cratlagh Wood, Co. Donegal, a quarter of a mile from the point where Lord Leitrim was murdered in April, 1878, a roadworker has found an old rusty revolver, loaded in six chambers. Herrity, one of the ambush party, who was posted as a sentry, was supposed to have had a revolver, which he threw into a ditch. The weapon found is believed to be a souvenir of the crime.

DOCTOR ADVOCATES ALCOHOL.—Monaghan Board of Health, by eight votes to five, has rescinded a resolution passed in March last, depriving the institution of the use of alcohol for medicinal purposes, and against which the medical officer protested. A member read extracts from the opinions of distinguished medical men against the use of alcohol, but the medical officer said that alcohol was considered a safe stimulant and was given in some form or other in almost every hospital.

PRISON FOR 19 YEARS OLD GIRL.—Molly Rushe, aged 19, no home, was sent to prison for three weeks, with hard labour, at Monaghan yesterday for maliciously breaking a window of a house at which she was refused a night's lodging. It was stated that the girl had been previously convicted of larceny.

PRISON FOR NEGLECTING CHILD.—Two tramps, named Samuel Woods and Charlotte Menary, were each sentenced to a month's imprisonment at Portadown for neglecting a child aged 4½ years. At 11.15 o'clock on a cold, wet night a policeman found Charlotte Menary with the child in the street. She was drunk, and he took her to the barracks. He afterwards went to a lodging-house and arrested Woods. The defendants were taking the child round the country to excite sympathy and get money, and the police asked the Court to inflict the full penalty of the law. They had travelled from Markethill that day, and then Woods went to bed in the lodging-house and left the woman and the child in the streets on a cold, wet night, not caring what happened to them.

GUEST, NOT EMPLOYE.—Joseph Binks was charged at Portadown with failing to pay health and unemployment insurance contributions in respect of his father-in-law, Willis McCready, whom, it was alleged, he had employed for some time. The defence was that McCready went to live with his son-in-law in the hope of getting employment in Portadown; that he was the guest of the defendant; that he was not employed by him; and that any money that the defendant gave his father-in-law was as charity and not as wages. The Court dismissed the case.

BELFAST UNEMPLOYMENT.—It was reported to the monthly meeting of the Belfast Local Employment Committee on Monday that the state of unemployment on May 5 was as follows:—Totally unemployed, men, 22,456 (increase since last report, 2,700); women, 4,515 (increase, 168); boys, 447 (increase, 59); girls, 64 (decrease, 3). Total, 27,492. On short time, men, 242 (increase, 102); women, 560 (decrease, 102); boys, 17 (increase, 8); girls, 54 (decrease 12). Total 873. The increase in the number of unemployed men was due to less work in the shipyards. Men who had been employed on relief work had also been paid off owing to the work on which they had been engaged being completed.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT IN LURGAN.—The number of persons totally unemployed in Lurgan is 326, a decrease of 38 on the figure for the previous month, and 928 on that for the corresponding period of last year. The general outlook in the area of the Lurgan Labour Exchange is better than it has been for a considerable time. The decrease in unemployment is due to the continued improvement in the linen industry.

PORTADOWN TRAIN SERVICE.—It was reported to a meeting of the Portadown Chamber of Commerce on Monday that during the summer months there would be three additional trains daily from Belfast to Portadown, four more to Belfast, and a train from Belfast to Dublin which would call at Portadown at 7.40. PROTECTION OF ANIMALS.—Londonderry Corporation yesterday discussed a draft order to deal with cruelty to animals in transit. One Councillor said that he had never seen any cruelty to cattle in Londonderry; another said that he saw it almost daily, and that the order should be enforced years ago. The order was approved.

UNREGISTERED DENTISTS.—In Belfast Summons Court yesterday, John J. Smith, 115 Grosvenor road, was fined £1 and costs for practising as a dentist without having been duly registered. Evidence was given that the defendant had been registered in 1922, but failed to pay the annual fee in 1923, and his name was taken off the register. A fine of £2 was imposed on Hugh Neill, 18 Campbell street, for a similar offence. The defendant was registered in 1922, but did not pay the annual fee in 1923, and had not since been a registered dentist.

NEGLECTED UNIFORMS.—At a meeting of the Londonderry Corporation yesterday, complaint was made that certain officials did not wear their uniforms. A member said that any officials who reported for duty in clothes other than his uniform should be sent home. The Executive sanitary officer said that he would see that the officials wore their uniforms.

LURGAN URBAN RATES.—Lurgan Urban Council has struck a consolidated town rate of 9s. 2d. in the £, and a poor rate of 1s. 10d. The total is the same as that of last year.

There was no air mail service from Liverpool to Belfast yesterday owing to unfavourable weather which prevented the aeroplane leaving Aintree.

Belfast Guardians have decided to ask the Duchess of Abercorn to perform the opening ceremony of the Abercorn Hospital on May 22.

Joseph M'Niece was fined 10s. and £2 2s. costs at Portadown for starting a gut manufactory on premises in Woodhouse street without the consent of the Urban Council.

CHESS IN IRELAND.

Yesterday evening began the final stage of the match at chess between Mr. J. J. O'Hanlon, of Portadown, and Mr. P. Baker, of Dublin.

The former gentleman has long been known as one of the strongest players that this country has ever produced. His reputation was established when he wrested the championship of Ireland in 1912 from the late Mr. Porterfield Rynd. Since that time Mr. O'Hanlon has won fresh laurels in several chess tournaments in Great Britain.

Mr. Baker is a junior player, who has only recently come into the first rank. Last year he won the championship of Leinster in a tournament of exceptionally strong players, and he still retains the title. In the present contest he lost the first game to Mr. O'Hanlon by adopting a hardly warranted variation from the orthodox defence to the Sicilian opening, and the Ulster player never relinquished the tactical advantage he thus obtained. On the contrary, he pressed it home with the utmost tenacity, and his strategy was without a fault.

In the second game Mr. O'Hanlon appeared to underrate his opponent, and it is questionable if the two pawns he won offered sufficient compensation for the loss of the exchange. In any event, Mr. Baker played from about the 15th move as if he looked to the result without misgiving, and the event justified this view, for his opponent resigned on the 70th move. This left both with a score of one game each when they began last evening, and the winner of the next game would win the match.

In the alternation of opening moves, the first move now fell to Mr. O'Hanlon, and the game pursued was the Scotch Gambit. After both had castled to the King's side, Mr. Baker was prompt to seize the file left open before his King, and by the aid of his two Rooks doubled upon it, assisted by his Queen on R3, he threatened a formidable attack. At the 29th move the full measure of its inherent strength became apparent, and at this stage there was no obvious means of warding it off. Both players had virtually absorbed the schedule allowance of time in reaching this point of the game.

The ten following moves of the Dublin player were probably as forcible an assertion of his advantage as could be made, and, after the 40th move of Black, Mr. O'Hanlon resigned.

The contest between Mr. Baker and Mr. Cranston, of the Dublin Chess Club, for the Irish Championship, of which the latter is the holder, will take place next week. To this club the players and the numerous spectators outside its list of membership owe a distinct debt for the ready courtesy with which the club rooms were put at their disposal.

LAW REPORTS.

BREACH OF PROMISE ACTION.

A DUBLIN CASE.

Before the Lord Chief Justice, in the action of Sarah Tully v. Mental Woolfe, alias Mendle Rosonovsky,

Mr. James Henry (instructed by Mr. F. L. Brownrigg) applied on behalf of the defendant for an order to remit the action for trial to the Recorder of Dublin. The action was brought to recover damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage. The defendant, who resides at 34 Lower Clanbrassil street, Dublin, in an affidavit, stated that he was a watchmaker by trade and carried on business under the trade name of Mendle Woolfe. He never promised to marry the plaintiff. The plaintiff, in a replying affidavit, referred to the circumstances under which the defendant asked her to marry him. He asked her father's consent to their marriage. Her father stated that he was willing to consent to the marriage provided that the defendant changed his religion and became a Catholic. The defendant was a Jew. He refused to change his religion and stated that he wished to be married in a registry office. Her father objected to this. Subsequently she promised the defendant that she would marry him when she came of age in June, 1923. The defendant betrayed her under promise of marriage. When she came of age he put off the marriage indefinitely. The plaintiff's father made a corroborative affidavit. In another affidavit the defendant again denied that he had promised to marry the plaintiff.

Mr. Martin Maguire (instructed by Mr. E. B. Maguire), for the plaintiff, appeared to oppose the application to remit.

The Chief Justice, by consent, directed that the action be tried by a judge and common jury, with one counsel on each side.

ACTION ABOUT RACEHORSE

THE PURCHASE OF ORNIA.

Yesterday, before Mr. Justice Dodd and a city special jury, the action was heard of Kennedy v. Carr. It was an action for breach of contract arising out of the sale of a racehorse. The plaintiff was Mr. Edward Kennedy, the well-known breeder of bloodstock, of Bishopscourt, Straffan, Co. Kildare, and he claimed £750 damages against Mrs. Gwynn Carr, of Gocean, Killybegs, Co. Down, for alleged breach of contract over the sale of a filly named Ornia.

The plaintiff, in the statement of the claim, stated that on April 14th, 1923, the defendant offered for sale by auction to be held by Mr. F. H. Clarke, at the Phœnix Park race meeting, "three horses in training, with their engagements." The plaintiff attended the auction and purchased one of the three horses offered for sale—namely, a three-year-old filly named Ornia—for the sum of £735 and auctioneer's fees. The plaintiff at the time believed in the truth and accuracy of the description of her condition as being in training, and, relying on this description, he purchased Ornia. Shortly after the purchase he discovered that she was not in training and that she was physically and constitutionally unsuitable for and incapable of the work incidental to training, or any work whatever, and was, in fact, suffering from delicacy and weakness which rendered her useless for the purpose for which she had been sold. The plaintiff further alleged that the filly was suffering and ailing from the date of the purchase until May 3rd, when she died. On the 27th April the plaintiff gave to the defendant a notice in writing of the condition of the filly, and the defendant had a full and ample opportunity of investigating her condition at any time between the date of the notice and the day when the animal died.

The defence was a traverse of the allegations contained in the statement of claim.

Mr. Patrick Lynch, K.C., and Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann) were for the plaintiff; and Mr. Serjeant Hanna, Mr. J. Lardner, K.C., and Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald (instructed by Messrs. Shean and Dickson) for the defendant.

Mr. Edward Kennedy was examined and bore out the circumstances relied on in the statement of claim. On the morning following the day of the sale he went to the stable to see Ornia and found that she had not touched any food.

Mr. O'Connor—When did Barrett, the jockey, come over to you?—I had asked the two jockeys from the Curragh I usually employ to ride my horses to come down to ride on the 18th, and Barrett accompanied them. He got Barrett to ride Ornia, while one of the other jockeys rode another filly—Petty Mary. Petty Mary cantered on, and the other filly did not appear to be able to move at all. After about 100 yards she stood still, apparently in trouble, as if she was tied to the ground. She could not have been in sufficiently hard work to compete with any success in any race.

In cross-examination, the witness said that after treating the filly she took soft feeding. He only got Barrett to canter her.

James Hayde, the plaintiff's trainer, in reply to Mr. Lynch, K.C., said that on the occasion of Barrett's visit Mr. Kennedy told him to give Ornia a nice exercise gallop. Anthony Barrett was on Ornia, and Binny Quirke on Petty Mary. They jumped off together, and Ornia could not go along with the other mare, which was only going at half-speed. After Barrett pulled her up, after going 100 yards, she stiffened across the loins.

Phillip Hayde said Mr. Carr died in January, 1923, and up to that time Ornia got the usual exercise, and subsequently she was in training, but not for any special race. She got suitable training for a race to be run in April.

Mr. Lewis McGee, V.S., gave evidence that he treated the animal on the 29th April for paralysis. On the post-mortem examination he found a clot near the kidneys.

Mr. Harry Beasley, in answer to Mr. Lynch, K.C., defined the meaning of the expression "in training" as applied to a horse, and the class of work the animal should be able to do.

This closed the case for the plaintiff.

Mr. Serjeant Hanna, in opening the case for the defendant, said that horses are entered for various races sometimes a year beforehand, and Ornia was entered for the Thousand Guineas at the Curragh when she was a yearling. In the description of Mrs. Carr's horses they would see the various engagements. Some of the jury might have thought that when horses are sold with all engagements they were trained and ready to go into these particular events. There was no warranty when sold that they were going into a particular event, or could run it. All it meant was that the horses were eligible to compete in those events.

The words that were important in the case were "in training." There must be various degrees of training, and counsel suggested that Mr. Kennedy was straining the interpretation which in fair racing was put upon these words. They would prove that this mare was getting training requisite for keeping her in a condition to be put in any race she might be suitable for.

Mr. Griffin, V.S., Curragh, said the immediate cause of death was acute congestion of the lungs, caused by broken ribs.

Mr. Swayne—There were no broken ribs when you saw the animal? No.

Professor Craig, Irish Veterinary College, said that the "clot" might have been formed after the death of the animal.

Mr. J. W. Murlin, who managed the defendant's horses, and Captain Tuttle, judge under the Irish Turf Club, and Mr. Maurice Reidy were also examined, and the defendant's case closed.

The jury, after a considerable absence, found a verdict for the defendant, for whom judgment was entered with costs.

GRAMAPHONE RECORDS.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S SON PLAINTIFF.

In the Chancery Division, before Mr. Justice Pim, in the case of Herbert Thomas Sullivan, of Norton, Dartmouth, Devonshire, v. J. T. Henecy and Sons (General) merchants and importers, of 18 Crow street, Dublin, a copyright action brought by the plaintiff with respect to dealing with gramaphone records of musical works of the late Sir A. Sullivan, of which the plaintiff was the owner, an application was made on behalf of the plaintiff for an interlocutory injunction, pending the trial of the action, restraining the defendants, their servants, agents and workmen from making, importing into the Irish Free State, selling, issuing for sale, letting for hire, reproducing in any form, advertising for sale, or otherwise dealing with any gramophone records or other contrivances for the purpose of mechanically reproducing the plaintiff's musical works, known as "Take a Pair of Sparkling Eyes," "The Sentry's Song" ("Iolanthe"), "The Lost Chord," "My Name is John Wellington Wells," "In Enterprise of Martial Kind," "Selections from the Gondoliers" (Parts I. and II.), "When I, Good Friends, was Called to the Bar," "I Can't Think Why," "Shortly Sighing" ("Pirates of Penzance"), "I Have a Song to Sing" ("Yeoman of the Guard"), or of any other musical work or works, of the plaintiff, without the plaintiff's consent.

Mr. Serjeant Hanna, who, with Mr. James Henry (instructed by Messrs. Malley and Charles), appeared for the plaintiff, made the application, and stated that these were all gramophones of German manufacture, and were dealt with by the defendants, in contravention of the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1911.

Mr. Conner, K.C., with Mr. Lavery (instructed by Messrs. Corrigan and Corrigan), appeared for the defendants.

Serjeant Hanna read an affidavit by the plaintiff, in which he stated that he was the owner of the copyright of the musical works consisting of the operas associated with the name of his father, Sir A. Sullivan, who was the author.

Counsel said an appearance had not been entered by the defendants, but an affidavit, which he read, had been put in by Mr. John Henecy, a member of the firm, in which he stated that the records referred to were copies made from the original records or plates, which, to the best of his knowledge and belief, were made in London or within the United Kingdom. His firm had never sold any of these records for performance in public, and they were always perfectly willing and anxious to pay all proper royalties and fees on records of the plaintiff's music sold by them.

Mr. Conner pointed out that the plaintiff had really no grievance in the matter under the circumstances stated. There was no copyright in the records.

Serjeant Hanna—No, but there is in the music.

His lordship said that the records were not Mr. Sullivan's at all. He granted the interlocutory injunction sought, preventing the sale of the records pending the trial of the action.

CLERICAL INCOMES.

The following resolution was passed yesterday at a meeting, held in the Clarence place Minor Hall, Belfast:—

"That this meeting of the Belfast Junior Clerical Society, representing the majority of the Junior Clergy of the United Dioceses of Down and Connor and Dromore, most strongly deprecates any proposal to reduce the minimum incomes of the clergy, whether beneficed or unbeneficed. We also desire to place on record our deep regret that in too many cases, even the modest minimum required by the Act of 1920, has not yet been attained."

A NEW TRADES UNION FOR IRISH WORKERS.

The formation of a new independent Co-Operative Trades Union to embrace all Irish workers, is advocated by Mr. Sean Lyons, T.D., as urgently needed. The union he has in view would foster a real national spirit amongst its members, work for a satisfactory understanding between workers and their employers, and help in the developing of home industries as a means of lessening unemployment.

FREE STATE TARIFFS.

ENGLISH BOOT AND SHOE INDUSTRY.

Mr. F. Gould having asked the President of the Board of Trade whether representation had been made to his department respecting the tariff duties upon imported boots and shoes which the Irish Free State Government has decided to impose; and whether, in view of the serious unemployment in the boot and shoe industry, he would make representation to the Free State Government with a view to removing such duty in the interests of our mutual trade,

Mr. Sidney Webb writes—Certain representations have reached me, and I am considering the matter.

UNQUALIFIED ACCOUNTANTS.

LEGISLATION PROPOSED BY THE INSTITUTE.

Mr. William Mayes, in submitting the Council's report at the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland, held in Dublin, mentioned that the balance on the year's accounts represents an excess of expenditure over income of £110 12s. 9d. The income showed an increase under each head, but exceptional outlay arose from attendances in London and Edinburgh discussing the question of registration for the profession. Law costs and printing were also exceptionally heavy, and there was a considerable increase in the expense of examinations. The last-named is the most serious, as it is of a recurring nature; but the Council are devising means whereby the expense can be somewhat reduced without serious inconvenience to the candidates or any lowering of the standards of efficiency which the Institute requires.

The question of legislation in Ireland with the view of preventing unqualified persons from posing as public accountants has been prominently before the Council, and much progress has been made in drafting a bill and in removing some of the difficulties which the problem presents. In the public interest it is desirable that there should be registration, while it will also benefit those younger members who, at the cost of much time and money, have qualified themselves for the profession of accountancy.

Mr. J. Harold Pim seconded, and the report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

On the proposal of Mr. J. Harold Pim, seconded by Mr. David Telford, Mr. William Mayes was unanimously re-elected President for the ensuing year.

The retiring members of the Council—Messrs. William Mayes, J. Harold Pim, C. E. L. Olden and Samuel Smyth—were re-elected, as were also the hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. Brock, and the auditors, Messrs. William Leslie and G. H. Tulloch.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.

TWENTY-FOUR NEW CASES IN BELFAST.

There are now 99 cases of sleeping sickness in Belfast, an increase of 24 since Monday.

Hitherto the daily average has been about four, and the large advance of 24 in one day was explained by an official of the Public Health Department to be due to the fact that 20 of these cases had been in hospital for some time, but that the disease had not been definitely diagnosed until Monday.

Up to the present there have been nine deaths.

PRECAUTIONS IN CORK.

At a meeting of the Cork Public Health Committee yesterday evening a report was read from Dr. Donovan, Superintendent Medical Officer of Health, directing attention to the fact that at present sleeping sickness was somewhat prevalent, and as cases of it had been reported in Dublin he strongly recommended that it should be made notifiable in Cork.

It was unanimously agreed to make the disease notifiable.

PRAYERS DURING CURFEW.

POLICE PATROL AT A RELIGIOUS SERVICE.

At the Portadown Petty Sessions, several persons who were found conducting a religious Service in a private house at Battlehill at half-past three o'clock on a Sunday morning were prosecuted by the police for a breach of the Curfew regulations.

A patrol of Special policemen entered a private house and found the people holding a Service. They had no permits.

Mr. McElroy, the magistrate, said that technically they had broken the law by not having permits. If they paid the costs of the summons there would be no conviction against them.

SALUTE THE CRADLE.

The Bishop of Exeter (Lord William Cecil), speaking at a Visitation Court at Barnstaple (Devonshire), said: "Saturday week is Empire Day, and we shall be saluting the flag and talking about our Empire. If I had my way I would put a cradle beside the flag, and when the girls' schools came to salute the flag I would make every girl salute the cradle; for the greatness of England depends upon the cradle. If the stock fails where is England!" His lordship deplored the stationary position regarding the birth rate in Devon, which was, apparently, following the unfortunate lead of France.

SOUTHERN TOURIST TRAFFIC.

EFFECT OF RAILWAYS BILL.

The Tourist Organisation Society of Ireland, of which the Governor-General of the Free State is the Patron, following up their intensive campaign and to bring the beauty spots of Ireland under the notice of tourists, have just had an interview at Euston Station, London, with Mr. H. G. Burgess, the General Manager of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway.

The Tourist Organisation Society was represented by—

Mr. G. R. Olden, the Managing Director of the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin;

Mr. A. W. Hewett, Tourist and General Passenger Agent, Dublin; and

Mr. H. Crawford Hartnell, the Honorary Organiser of the Society.

The object of the visit was pointed out by Mr. Olden, who emphasised the fact that there are few countries (if any) in the world which offer more attractions to tourists than Ireland, with its varied scenery, fascinations, mountains, lakes and moorland, whilst as a sporting country it stands unrivalled.

Mr. Olden further stated that it was well within the knowledge of the Society that without the active co-operation of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway it would be futile to expect any great volume of tourist traffic to Ireland from the greater part of England, Scotland and Wales. What he (Mr. Olden) meant by co-operation was the assistance of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway in helping the Tourist Society to exhibit their posters and literature at their railway stations and in industrial centres generally, and, in addition, that the railway company should freely advertise Ireland as a tourist ground, and, above all things, provide good train and steamboat services, bearing in view the fact that the London, Midland and Scottish Railway now serves all the ports on the West coast of England and Scotland from Holyhead to Glasgow.

The General Manager of the railway company told the deputation that the sympathies of his company were altogether with the object explained by Mr. Olden, and, under ordinary circumstances, he would be very glad to do all in his power to induce tourists to visit Ireland; but, in view of existing circumstances in the Midland and Southern parts of Ireland, he saw a difficulty in at present complying with the request of the Society.

The circumstances he referred to were the intention of the Free State Government to alter the existing railway arrangements, and it was not at all clear what would be decided for the future. Another point that occurred to him was the question of hotel accommodation, particularly in Dublin, and, as the deputation would appreciate, any railway company taking steps to induce tourists to visit any particular place had, in the first instance, to be satisfied that travelling facilities and hotel accommodation would be all that the tourists desired.

Mr. Burgess explained that so far as the North of Ireland was concerned a different state of affairs existed. It is not proposed to alter the railway arrangements in any way, and the hotel accommodation is ample; in fact, the London, Midland and Scottish Railway was very much interested in one of the railways in the North of Ireland and connecting hotels, and he had no hesitation in saying that special efforts would be made to induce tourists to visit that party of the country, which has many attractions, such as the beautiful Antrim coast, the Giant's Causeway, Lough Neagh and the great industrial centres of Belfast.

Finally, Mr. Burgess assured the deputation that it would be a great pleasure to him to do everything in his power to further the objects which Mr. Olden explained when it was made clear that travellers would have the railway and hotel facilities they desire; and that, in the meantime, he was seeing at once what could be done to improve the tourist business with the North of Ireland.

WARSHIP TO PROTECT PASSENGERS.

Lloyd's Shanghai Agent, telegraphing yesterday, says:—The British steamer, Glenamoy, Tees and London for Yokohama, is ashore off Video Island. Her position is precarious. The vessel is pounding heavily on the rocks. Have sent passengers aboard Butterfield vessel. On the advice of the British Consul have requested the British Admiral to send them protection, as that vicinity is known to be a stronghold of pirates.

DUBLIN'S VEGETABLE MARKET.

Mr. C. O'Donovan, Chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the County Dublin Committee of Agriculture, held yesterday at the offices of the Dublin County Council.

Mr. Grey, of the Agricultural Department, reporting on the Dublin Vegetable Market, said there was a great deal of forestalling, and the markets, as a rule, were overcrowded with foreign produce. He suggested the earlier opening of the markets, and that cabbage should be cut and sent to the market without roots.

It was decided to call a conference of vegetable growers to discuss the whole question of the markets in Dublin.

MISSING AUDITOR NOW IN CUSTODY.

Mr. Edward Linton Peck, an auditor, of Caxton street, Westminster, for whom a warrant had been issued on charges of misappropriation, a large sum being involved, walked into Brighton Central Police Station yesterday, and, pointing to a newspaper which contained a statement to the effect that he was missing, said: "That's me." He added that he has been in France for some time. Subsequently he was conveyed to London.

The Cashel Rural District Council has passed a resolution demanding the release of all the prisoners.

GOOD FIELD FOR THE CUP.

BELLMAN OR SCULLION?

INKERMAN WINS BY TWO LENGTHS.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
CHESTER, Tuesday Night.

One cannot go into transports of enthusiasm about the race for the Chester Cup to-morrow afternoon, which, nevertheless, judging by the attendance to-day, will pack the rings and stands of the Roodeye to that unpleasant point at which people swelter. There will be no high-class horse in the field, but a batch of useful stayers will go to the post, between half a dozen of whom there is little or nothing to choose.

I imagine that Flint Jack, who was fourth last year after being cut into, is still backward in condition, and I much prefer the chance of Bellman, who finished slightly in front of him last season. Mr. Frank Curzon's horse has been doing uncommonly well, and his trainer thinks that he has never had him so fit in his life. The easy going that prevails here will be entirely to his liking, and I confidently expect that, if luck favours him in this peculiar race, he will take a great deal of beating.

SCULLION'S IMPROVING FORM.

On the same mark as Bellman in the handicap is Miwani. He was backward when he ran badly at Derby, but he is such an honest, game horse that he may do well. For Apron, who runs instead of Ceylonese, I have no fancy, but Becka, a winner of the Irish Oaks, comes into the argument, for she is undoubtedly well handicapped, and will be ridden by Donoghue. She was, however, reported to be slightly amiss this afternoon.

Scullion is undoubtedly much fancied, and this improving son of Junior made a bold show in the Newbury Cup when his trainer had not much regard for his prospects. He is a nice wear-and-tear stamp of colt, and has an excellent chance. Sierra Leone is the last of those whose chance need be taken serious note of.

He was third in the Great Metropolitan when greatly fancied, but his jockey was of opinion then that he had ridden a bad race on him, and those who supported him at Epsom should on no account leave him out to-morrow, though they might be well advised to make their investments each way. In making a choice between Bellman, Scullion, and Sierra Leone, I choose BELLMAN to win from Scullion.

AN OUTSIDERS' DAY.

It was an outsiders' day here this afternoon. Scobie's little Berkshire stable supplied the winner of the first race, a selling plate, in Double Star, an outsider, who won from Head First and Seeker, with the favourite, Plucky Jenny, unplaced. This, however, was not the worst blow to backers administered by Scobie and his patron, Sir Charles Hyde, for Dignity, a colt from their stable, beat Sunart, on whom odds of 8 to 1 were laid in the Mostyn Stakes.

The favourite made a most flattering impression. She raced away from a big field on the occasion of her first appearance at Newmarket last week, and in a field of four no one troubled to look elsewhere for the winner. Now she got almost a flying start, but Bullock, on Dignity, who had hung on to her well, challenged after turning into the straight. It was a terrific race between the pair, and Dignity just got up on the post to win by a short head.

DIGNITY'S SHORT-HEAD WIN.

The winner is a particularly good-looking chestnut colt by Gainsborough out of All Orange, who was bred at Lord Furness' stud in Ireland. Sir Charles Hyde took such a fancy to him at Doncaster last year that he went to 3,500 guineas to secure him. He is still backward, and there was very little fancy for his chance here, but he beat the blazing favourite, for whom there is little excuse to be made.

The most important race of the day, the Chester Vase, only brought out three runners, and with odds laid on him, Inkerman won comfortably from Arcade by two lengths. This winner will prove himself a very high-class colt, indeed, this season. Arcade showed a lot of temper in the paddock, and I am afraid that he may be turning sour. He tried to run out in the course of the race.

Taylor, who expected to have several winners, only landed the stakes with Inkerman, for Leonardo, who was made favourite for the Roodeye Maiden Plate, was beaten six lengths by Lancastrian, who ran away with the race.

Scapino, in the Belgrave Stakes, was another disappointment; for he never seemed to be able to keep with his field for this race. Moabite disappointed Mr. Lambton, for he dropped back after making a demonstration half a mile from home. The race was won all the way in the easiest fashion by Ragout, who scored at his ease from Jansan.

A DISAPPOINTING COLT.

Millcraft is proving a very disappointing colt in this country. He was nearly as good a favourite as Jaerosa in the Eaton Maiden Stakes, but after being well placed in the early stages he dropped right back, and was lamentably beaten. He is good-looking enough for anything; but if his running since he came to England suggests anything, it is that he is a soft-hearted animal. Jaerosa only squeezed home by a head from St. Clears in this race.

In the other races besides the Cup to-morrow, I like the chance of DANDELION in the Prince of Wales's Welter Handicap, and of HELSBY in the Three-Year-Old Handicap. In the Badminton Stakes Captain Davis runs a well-tried youngster, owned by Mr. Kenyon. This is TOWN VILLA, who may win.

ESSEX V. KENT.

So much time was lost through rain on the first two days that it was not surprising that the match between Essex and Kent at Leyton yesterday had to be left drawn. Woolley dominated the scoring, and during a stay of two hours, in which he gave no actual chance, he hit 3 sixes and 9 fours. Hubble, who hit 6 fours, helped Woolley to put on 145 in 75 minutes. LEICESTERSHIRE V. DERBYSHIRE.

Yesterday a full and interesting day's play was obtained at Leicestershire. With brilliant sunshine the wicket enabled the bowlers to reap a big harvest, Geary in Derbyshire's first innings claiming 7 for 45, and Bestwick in Leicestershire's first innings doing even better with 8 for 36. Derbyshire, when the match was drawn at 6.30, had increased their lead to 152 for 8 wickets. Score:—

LAWN TENNIS.

THE DAVIS CUP.

GREAT BRITAIN LEADS.

Under delightful weather conditions at Torquay yesterday the Doubles provided a capital match, with the British pair always holding the upper hand. While Godfree was always sound and steady, Woosnam—whose first appearance it was in a Davis Cup contest since 1921—was in fine form and, after he had warmed to his task, often brilliant. The Belgian pair did not hit it off too well at times, but Washer was clearly the stronger player, and it was certainly not his fault that Belgium lost by three sets to love.

A cautious opening set, and Great Britain took the lead, 6-4. Woosnam's placing and killing just turned the scale in the second set and, powerful as was Washer's driving, the home pair increased their lead at 9-7. Playing a winning game, Woosnam and Godfree led 5-1 in the final set, and although Belgium closed to 4-5, Woosnam's service in the tenth game took set and match at 6-4. Result:—

MAX WOOSNAM and L.-A. GODFREE (Great Britain) beat J. WASHER and A. G. WATSON (Belgium)—6-4, 9-7, 6-4.

The Class IV. course is as before, from the starting line to Bullock and back; after that the boats do two rounds of the harbour course and then win on starting line. All marks to starboard, but the hauling buoy at the harbour mouth is not to be considered as a mark on the course when the boats are entering the harbour at the close of the first round and when going out to the line to finish.

IRELAND AND THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—On Tuesday, May 27th, Ireland will make her debut in the Olympic Games. To her footballers is entrusted the honour of unfurling her flag, and the players and reserves chosen for the purpose by the Football Association will leave Dublin on the 24th instant. They will use every effort to make Ireland's first appearance a victorious one, but it is hoped that the Irish sporting public will supplement that effort with the financial backing without which the most earnest endeavour must fail.

The entire expense of the undertaking will be defrayed from the special fund inaugurated by the Football Association of the Irish Free State, which will publish within the next few days a full list of the subscribers. A final appeal is now made to those who can and will assist in the matter. Remittances may be sent to me at the above address.—Yours, etc.,

L. C. SHERIDAN, Honorary Secretary,
Football Association of the Irish Free State,
22 Mary street, Dublin.

LONDON STOCKS NARROW.

A DULL TONE.

The Stock markets yesterday continued narrow, and the tone remained dull, fluctuations in foreign exchanges tending to restrict business. Price changes for the most part were unimportant, while early losses were recovered in many instances. Gilt-edged securities were slightly easier. Funding Loan at 88 were ⅛ lower, while the 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan at 77⅞ and the 4½ p.c. Conversion issue at 97⅞ fell ⅛ and ⅛, respectively.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were maintained, but the few changes recorded were in the upward direction, with the exception of French 5 p.c. Loan, which fell ½ to 23⅞. Chinese 5 p.c. (1912) rose a point to 68, and Peruvian Pref. at 28½ rose a similar amount. Portuguese 3 p.c. were ½ higher at 28½.

HOME RAILS were stagnant, the only change in this section being that of a fall of ½ to 110 in Great Western Ord.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILS were dull. Bahia Blanca Guaranteed fell ½ to 82, and Central Argentine were also ½ lower at 73. In Buenos Ayres, the Southern at 88 and the Western at 73½ were both ½ lower. Americans were quiet.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

A BETTER TONE.

Oil shares opened quietly yesterday, the market still being under the influence of the cut in American crude oil prices, and with so little interest displayed in either the leaders or the speculative favourites, bear operations were indulged in, causing prices to sag. An improvement occurred in the afternoon, and prices closed with a steady appearance. Royal Dutch made a dull start, but a gain resulted from the day's dealings. Shells also made a recovery in absence of any real selling. Burmahs hardened, and the Anglo-Persians maintained a steady tone. Mexican Eagles commanded very little attention, but a quiet demand was experienced for Eagle Oil Transport 7 per cent Notes. Anglo-Americans weakened. The best feature of the day was provided by the British controlled issues. At the start they had an easier tendency, in sympathy with the rest of the market, but came into strong request later, and changed hands freely at advancing prices. Closing prices:—

RUBBER SHARES WEAKER.

The Rubber Share market yesterday was weak. Price changes, however, were fairly numerous and with few exceptions in the downward direction. Ledbury fell 2s. 6d. to 23s. 9d., and Sablas were 1s. 9d. lower at 10s. 9d. Sungei Bahru lost 1s. 7½d. to 15s. 7½d., while Nordanal at 12s. 8½d. fell 1s. 3½d. Kapar Para at 33s. 1½d. fell 1s. 3d., while Java Amalgamated at 21s. and Langkat Sumatra at 21s. 6d. both recorded falls of 1s. Practically the only rise of note was that of 1s. 6d. to 20s. in Anglo-Malay. The price of rubber fell to 11⅛d. per lb. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET DULL.

DEMAND FOR WEST SPRINGS.

Hesitancy was again the keynote in the Stock Exchange yesterday, and even the gilt-edged and purely investment securities could boast only a trickle of business. The more speculative departments were dominated by political considerations, the debate on the McKenna duties in the House of Commons, and the unexpected development of the French elections creating a feeling of nervousness in professional and public circles. Kaffirs had a languishing appearance. Lower values were cabled from Johannesburg. West Springs went ahead sharply, and the demand for these created a slightly harder tone at the close. Central Mining were being picked up for investment, but the remainder of the list still bore traces of the early dulness. The Rhodesian department was very quiet, as may be gathered from the fact that even the usually active counters moved within very narrow limits, and at the close only two quotable alterations could be recorded—both of them against holders. Among Diamonds, De Beers Def., after opening dull, rallied smartly on a demand induced by hopes of a dividend next month. Jagersfontein and Consolidated Diamonds, however, were easier. The prices of tin fell back £4 15s. to £225 2s. 6d. per ton, and the Share market became almost neglected. Rio Tinto recovered with other internationals. In the Miscellaneous department, Canadians improved under the lead of Huronian belt. Mexicans were inclined to go better, and Burma Corp. kept very firm. Closing Prices:—

INDUSTRIALS QUIET.

INFLUENCED BY FRENCH ELECTIONS.

Still under the influence of the result of the French elections, and fears concerning the outcome of the debate in Parliament on the McKenna duties, Miscellaneous and Industrial markets experienced a quiet day yesterday, and, in the absence of support, prices were inclined to lower levels. Caterers were undecided, though Foodstuffs kept up. Maypole Def. responded to a small demand by hardening to 4s., and Bovril Def. further advanced. Breweries showed few changes, but, in the Hotel list, Gordon Prefs. recovered. Tobaccos displayed a sagging tendency. Iron and Steels eased, Platt Bros. losing the previous day's gain, while among Coal Shares Powell-Duffryns further receded. Among Electrics, Siemens Bros. continued on offer on fears concerning the dividend, but County of Londons met with support, and appreciated. Irregularity characterised Cables. Motor Shares were distinctly flat on the proposed abolition of the McKenna duties.

In the Land section, Sudans held their ground, but Deccans gave way. Nitrates were irregular, Lautaros suffering a sharp set-back. Trust and Finance issues appreciated. A demand sprang up for Prudential B Shares, which lifted the price 1s. 6d. to 26s. 6d. Elsewhere among Insurances gains of ⅛ occurred in Londons at 17⅛ (ex div.), in North British and Mercantiles at 18, and in Royals at 26⅛. Alliance New, however, and Guardians both lost ⅛ at 14⅛ and 7⅛, respectively. Irregularity characterised Bank Shares. Hong Kong and Shanghai rose 1 to 133⅛, while Westminsters moved up to 17⅛. Barclays A, on the other hand, dropped ⅛ to 7⅛, and Lloyds eased to 60s. 9d.

Gas Stocks kept up, as did also Shipping descriptions. Cairn Lines strengthened to 16s. The Marconi group was dull, the Ord. weakening to 1$\frac{15}{32}$, the Prefs. to 1$\frac{13}{32}$, and Marines to 1$\frac{1}{16}$. After being offered down to 18s. at one time, Star Tea Def. Shares met with support and recovered to 20s. 3d., though they closed below the best at 19s. 9d., or slightly lower on balance. Elsewhere in the Miscellaneous Trading list Manbre Sugars were not so good at 7⅛. Bradford Dyers weakened to 61s., and slight set-backs occurred in Amalgamated Cottons to 8s. 10½d., and in Dyestuffs Prefs. to 11s. 6d. Crosses and Winkworth Prefs. eased to 7s. 9d. on the report. Bleachers Prefs., however, improved to 21s. 3d., and Sewing Cottons to 52s. 6d. Among recent issues Swedish Match New receded to 5s. prem., while the rights gave way to 8s. 3d.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

BOLAND'S DIVIDEND INCREASED.—The report of the directors for the year ended 29th March states that the profit and loss account for the year to that date shows a surplus of £15,914 8/5, and the credit brought forward from 1923 was £5,585 0s. 8d., making a total of £19,536 9/1. After deducting interest on Debentures (£75,000), an interim dividend paid on Preference Shares for half-year to September 29th, the balance remaining is £15,636 9/1. The directors recommend that this be applied as follows:—To dividend on Preference Shares for half-year to March 29th, 1924, at 6 per cent. per annum, less income tax, £1,687 10/-; to dividend on Ordinary Shares (£130,000) for the year to March 29, 1924, at 5 per cent., less income tax, £4,875; to special reserve for taxation, £1,000; to special reserve for contingencies, £1,000; to credit of the account for the current year, £6,473 19/1. Premises and plant have been maintained during the year at an expenditure of £9,357 5/4, which has been charged against revenue. The director retiring in rotation, Mr. William Findlater, is eligible for re-election. The death of Mr. S. R. Watson is recorded with extreme regret. His services for many years, at the annual meetings, and, since 1914, at the Board, will not be soon forgotten. Mr. John Quinn (J. Spicer and Co., Ltd.) has been elected to the vacancy. The special qualifications of Mr. Quinn, through his long experience in management of milling and baking, are well known to the commercial public. The dividend a year ago was 4 per cent., with £2,000 to reserve and £5,562 forward.

KAPP AND PETERSON.—The directors have declared a final dividend for the half-year ended January 12th, 1924, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum on the Preference, and 10 per cent. per annum on the Ordinary Shares of the company, less income tax. Also bonus of 1/- per share on Ordinary Shares, free of income tax. There is a carry over to next account of £3,525. Annual general meeting Wednesday, May 21st, at 113 St. Stephen's Green, West, at noon. The dividend is the same as last year.

CALCUTTA ELECTRIC SUPPLY.—Final dividend 6 per cent., bonus 1 per cent.

CROSSES AND WINKWORTH.—There is a profit of £139,254 for the year, and £155,076 was brought in, making £294,330; less depreciation, £130,000; balance available for liability to income tax not yet ascertained, £164,330. The directors regret that the profits on the year do not permit of any payment on account of arrears on Pref. dividend.

DORANAKANDE RUBBER.—Dividend of 6 per cent., less tax.

FINE COTTON SPINNERS.—Net profit £1,038,574, against £943,460. Final dividend of 10 per cent. actual, making 14 per cent. for the year, against 12½ per cent. last year; £60,000 placed to pension and welfare fund, £100,000 to equalisation of dividend, and £267,406 carried forward, against £210,331 brought in.

F.M.S. RUBBER.—Dividend 5 per cent.

INDIAN AND GENERAL INVESTMENT TRUST.—Final dividends for half-year to 30th April, 1924, as follows:—On the Preference Stock at rate of 5 per cent. per annum, and on the Deferred Stock at rate of 12 per cent. per annum, making 10 per cent. for the year, together with a bonus of 2½ per cent. actual.

SEREMBAN RUBBER ESTATES.—Dividend of 4 per cent. for the year 1923, less tax.

SECOND MERCANTILE TRUST.—Final dividend 2½ per cent.

WYMAN AND SONS.—Final dividend of 10 per cent., making 15 per cent. for the year, less tax.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS IN LIGHTER SUPPLY.

EXCHANGES IMPROVING.

It was evident in Lombard street that floating supplies of credit were not quite so plentiful. Instead of 2 p.c., lenders were able sometimes to demand 2½ p.c. for day-to-day money, and there was practically no cheap surplus offering for the night. Fixtures were maintained at 2½ p.c. for renewals. Exceedingly little business was going on in discounts. The tone was fairly steady, with fine three months' Bank bills 2$\frac{11}{16}$ p.c., and the new Treasuries 2¾ p.c., being buyers and sellers at the price. No demand was experienced for short-dated paper, July being nominally 2¾ p.c. and Junes 2$\frac{11}{16}$.

Gold was 1d. per ounce lower at 94s. 7d. Silver declined 1/16d. per ounce for spot to 33 1/16d., but was unaltered for forward delivery at 33 1/16d.

While there was less feverishness about the market for foreign exchange, there was still an absence of confidence, and values fluctuated considerably. French francs, after being 80.00, picked up to 78.35-78.45, with Belgian francs 93-93¼. Sterling was firmer on New York at 4.36¼-4.36⅜, and Holland kept steady at 11.68-11.68½. Italy was 98⅛-98⅞. Rupees firmed up to 1s. 4$\frac{13}{16}$d.-1s. 4⅞d., and Japanese yen were a trifle better at 1s. 10 1/16d.-1s. 10⅛d. Argentine dollars reacted slightly to 41 1/16-41⅛, but Brazilian milreis kept steady at 6 1/16-6⅛. Spain showed a slight improvement at 31.60-31.63, but Norway depreciated to 31.80-31.90, Denmark remaining at 25.68-25.72, with Austria 306,000-313,000 and Poland 22.60-22.90. FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The London office of the National Bank of South Africa, Limited, states that a cable from the head office at Pretoria announces profits for the year to March 31 last amounting to £228,127, to which is added £25,136 brought in. The total profit is arrived at after providing for bad and doubtful debts, the establishment of a reserve against the possibility of depreciation in overseas sterling balances, and for properties' depreciation. At the meeting to be held at Pretoria on August 8, the directors will recommend transferring £150,000 to reserve fund and £50,000 to pension fund, leaving £28,127 to be carried forward. The National Bank of South Africa, Ltd., is authorised by the deputy governor of the South African Reserve Bank to state that, following the precedent of last year, an independent examination of the National Bank's figures for the year to March 31 last has been conducted under his personal supervision, and that as a result of this examination he confirms the figures quoted, and approves of the proposals of the directors as to the allocation of the profits.

The position of Crosses and Winkworth Consolidated Mills does not improve, remarks the Evening Standard. Indeed, the profit for the past year is only £139,200 before allowing for depreciation, compared with £274,100 for the previous twelve months after depreciation had been provided. Obviously there can be no payment on account of arrears of Preference dividend.

The accounts of Bolands for the year's trading, now published, show a substantial increase in profits. The dividend is brought up to 5 per cent., the reserves benefit to the extent of £2,000, and an increased amount is brought forward to the current year. Mr. Findlater, one of the directors, retires, and is eligible for re-election. There is an infusion of new blood to the Board through the co-option of Mr. John Quinn, of Messrs. Spicer, Ltd., the extensive millers and bakers, of County Meath. Mr. Quinn, who understands all the ins and outs of the business, should prove a valuable acquisition to the Board.

The proposed capital reconstruction scheme of the important dry goods house of Stafford, Northcote, and Co. is now available, and shows that the company intends writing down the capital from £150,000 to £87,000. This is proposed to be effected by writing off 18/- a share from each Ordinary Share, thus reducing them to the nominal value of 2/- each. The Preference shareholders are asked to waive their 42½ per cent. interest arrears, and it is proposed to make the shares 6 per cent. non-cum. in future. The Preference Shares are also to be sub-divided from £5 to shares of £1.

The dividend announcement of the Fine Spinners and Doublers' Association became known yesterday afternoon, and, although it is not up to the best market expectations, it was considered quite satisfactory. The final distribution is 10 per cent. actual, and, with the interim dividend of 4 per cent., makes a total of 14 per cent. for the year. This compares with 12½ per cent. for the preceding year. The market has been looking for a total of 15 per cent. A sum of £100,000 is added to reserve, and £267,405 is carried forward.

PETROLEUM steady.

The Coffee Exchange and Sugar market will be closed on Saturdays from 31st May to 30th August.

COFFEE opened about steady, unchanged to 8 points lower, and showed weakness for the greater part of the session owing to disappointing Brazil advices, selling by commission houses and liquidation, but rallied partially on shorts covering and closed steady, 5 points down to 4 points up. Spot steady. Approximate day's sales—14,000 bags. Future options—May, 13.40; July, 12.85; September, 12.15; December, 11.80; March, 11.55.

TALLOW steady.

COTTON SEED OIL irregular.

TIN weak, 100 points down. Future option, 45.00.

ZINC steady at 6 points rise.

IRON steady and unchanged.

ELECTROLYTIC COPPER barely steady.

COTTON opened steady, 3 to 18 points higher, on bullish private crop advices, encouraging cables news and prompt stoppage of "notices." A reaction set in, however, owing to New England mills curtailment, selling by Wall street interests and Wall street houses, and the disappointing attitude of spinners, but the upward movement was resumed subsequently on covering of shorts and heavier exports. The market closed very steady, 25 points down to 10 points up. Spot steady at 5 points fall. New Orleans spot 20 points lower. The Watkins Bureau estimate the area planted at 39,280,000 acres and the increase 5 per cent. To-day's receipts—Atlantic ports, 2,000 bales; Gulf, 6,000 bales; Pacific, nil. CANADIAN WHEAT SUPPLY.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada decreased 5,863,000 bushels on the week, and now totals 27,479,000 bushels.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. up to unchanged, and has had an advancing market under the influence of decreasing stocks, smaller interior receipts, commission house buying, a bullish Illinois State report, large seaboard clearances, buying by cash houses, a milling demand and covering of shorts. The close was firm, ⅛c. to 1⅛c. up. Spot easier. No. 2 hard winter spot, 109⅛; No. 3 hard winter spot, 107⅛. Futures steady. Opening options—May, 104⅛; July, 105⅛. Closing options—May, 104⅛; July, 106⅛; September, 107⅛. Receipts—Western points—To-day, 554,000 bushels; same day last year, 687,000; this season, 318,110,000; last season, 400,685,000.

MAIZE opened barely steady at ⅛c. reduction. May option has been depressed by larger receipts, a disappointing cash demand and liquidation, but other positions rose on commission house buying, the rise in wheat, covering of shorts and bull support. Smaller local carlot arrivals are estimated for to-morrow. The market closed irregular, ⅛c. to ⅛c. up. Spot No. 2 mixed, 86⅛. Futures—Opening options—May, 75⅛; July, 75⅛. Closing options—May, 76; July, 76⅛; September, 75⅛. Receipts—Western points—To-day, 548,000 bushels; same day last year, 284,000; this season, 252,106,000; last season, 283,652,000.

OATS steady at ⅛c. to ⅛c. gain. Closing options—May, 44⅛; July, 44; September, 39⅛.

PROVISIONS opened steady, and after a slow, featureless trade the market closed dull, with lard 5 points up to 24 points down, and ribs 5 points higher to unchanged. Lard—Closing options—May, 10.50; July, 10.674; September, 10.90. Ribs—Closing options—May, 9.90; July, 9.90; September, 10.05.

BACON steady and unaltered.

WEST SPRINGS.

RESULTS OF RECENT MILLING.

It is curious, to say the least, that when markets are dull and listless adverse rumours are quickly in circulation regarding certain shares. A case in point has recently arisen in the Kaffir section, where West Springs have been receiving some unwelcome attention.

The company is admittedly in the transition stage from a well-developed mine to an actual producer, says the Financial News of to-day, and although initial milling results will not be known for some time, it has been stated that the new plant, which is probably the most up-to-date on the Rand, is not working satisfactorily. The story, which has been given wide publicity, has been categorically denied, an official cablegram published on Monday stating that the production plant, which has been in operation since April 19, is functioning smoothly and satisfactorily. In addition we are in a position to state that a private cablegram has been received from the other side to the effect that recent developments are of a highly satisfactory character. Of some 500 feet sampled, no less than 95 per cent. is payable and giving over 1,000 in dwt., which is equal to more than 16 dwt. per ton over a stoping width of 66 feet. This, we believe, is a record for the mine, and is certainly as good a showing as can be recorded anywhere in the Far Eastern Rand, where high values are common.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND ELECTIONS.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., Monday.

Mr. Warren, the former Prime Minister, has authorised the announcement to-day that he is retiring from politics for the present. This development further complicates the situation. Both parties are trying to complete the selection of their candidates, but are finding difficulty owing to the growing belief that the coming Legislature will not last long.

Rumours are in circulation to-day that Sir Richard Squires may place candidates in some pivotal constituencies in the hope of securing the balance of power.—(Reuter.)

LONDON WOOL SALES.

At the resumption of public sales, two catalogues were brought forward jointly, totalling 10,179 bales, and comprised 3,954 bales New South Wales and Queensland, 1,556 Victorian, 172 South Australian, 145 West Australian, 3,911 New Zealand, and 273 Cape. Good competition prevailed from a full attendance of buyers, and a steady sale resulted at recent rates.
